

B52s support troops against enemy attack

SAIGON (UPI) — Six flights of B52 heavy bombers struck suspected Communist positions early today near Quang Tri, 18 miles south of the demilitarized zone (DMZ) in support of South Vietnamese forces trying to roll back a five-day-old North Vietnamese offensive.

Cloud cover closed in again over the battleground during the morning and seriously hampered U.S. fighter-bomber flights in northern South Vietnam.

The South Vietnamese government stripped Saigon, Da Nang and Hue of 10,000 defense troops Monday and flew them to Quang Tri province to back up forces trying to halt the North Vietnamese attack. The carrier Kitty Hawk steamed into the area Monday night and joined two other U.S. flattops in action.

The six flights of B52s, which fly above the weather, hit the suspected Communist positions south of the allied, forward headquarters at Quang Tri but avoided areas further north where Soviet built antiaircraft missiles are reported in place.

Despite indications from U.S. spokesmen in Saigon and Washington that U.S. aerial bombing of North Vietnam was imminent, military sources said no bombing had occurred yet.

The U.S. command warned Hanoi it was taking "precautionary actions" to save American lives and backed up the warning by doubling the size of its fleet off Vietnam to four carriers and calling in the guided missile cruiser Oklahoma City, flagship of the U.S. 7th Fleet.

Such warnings in the past have brought heavy bombing attacks against North Vietnam whose thrust across the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) and capture of half of Quang Tri Province violated the 1968 "understanding" that halted bombing of the north and led to start of the Paris peace talks.

The carriers Hancock and Coral Sea already were in action off the Vietnamese coast and pilots reported they knocked out "some" of the 60 North Vietnamese tanks spotted Monday. The Kitty Hawk joined them Monday night and its pilots were ordered into action immediately.

The Constellation was racing to the area from Japan to give the United States its greatest concentration of naval air power in the Tonkin Gulf since 1968. The carriers and fighter-bombers based in Vietnam and Thailand would enable the United States to send more than 500 planes against the North Vietnamese.

The invading force of nearly 15,000 North Vietnamese were reported shelling Quang Tri, the nearby Quang Tri Base and Dong Ha Monday night in the same strategy that led to loss of all other South Vietnamese bases in the northern half of the province.

A new threat appeared to be developing to Hue, devastated during the 1968 Tet offensive and guarded now by only two regiments of infantry—about 5,500 men—from Communists pouring out of the Annamite foothills west of the city. The Communists attacked Fire Base Anne, 18 miles west of the city and Fire Base Hastagne, 15 miles to the southwest.

U.S. may resume bombing raids over North Vietnam

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The United States left open Monday the possibility of resumption of heavy American air attacks on North Vietnam because of what it described as "flagrant violation" by Hanoi of a 1968 understanding which led to cessation of the bombing.

A State Department spokesman, Robert J. McCloskey, said the North Vietnamese attacks in Quang Tri province by three divisions, with heavy artillery and tank support, constituted "an invasion of South Vietnam."

McCloskey said that this entailed violation of the demilitarized zone between the two countries.

He said the situation in Quang Tri province was under review at the White House and elsewhere in Washington and "I am not in a position to say what specific action" the United States will take.

The reaction at the State Department to the Communist thrust was much stronger than at the White House or the Pentagon.

A White House spokesman said the administration in general and President Nixon in particular were concerned about the situation, but said no change was contemplated in U. S. policy, which features a winding down of American involvement in Vietnam.

The White House also stressed that there were no plans to put Americans into the battle. At the Pentagon, a spokesman observed that there were not enough GIs left in Vietnam anyway "to have any significant effect on any major battle."

The State Department refused to say specifically whether it was possible that the United States would resume heavy air attacks on North Vietnam.

The heavy bombing ended in 1968 in what

U.S. officials said was in exchange for Hanoi's willingness to respect the DMZ and to refrain from shelling or rocketing South Vietnamese cities.

McCloskey recalled to reporters that Nixon had said on several occasions that during the Vietnamization process, he would "take whatever action he considered necessary to protect U.S. forces and their continuing withdrawal."

Nixon showed his concern about the situation by calling a meeting of his top military and diplomatic advisers to discuss the Communist offensive. Nixon did not personally attend the meeting, although it was held at the White House.

One of the participants, Adm. Thomas H. Moorer, was quoted by the Pentagon as saying: "The action is in its beginning stages. It is very difficult to evaluate at this point."

Gerald L. Warren, deputy press secretary, said Nixon ordered a meeting of the National Security Council's Washington Special Action Group, headed by Dr. Henry A. Kissinger, his national security adviser.

Nixon also conferred by telephone with Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird and with Secretary of State William P. Rogers. He discussed the new Communist offensive into the area below the demilitarized zone with Kissinger and with Admiral Thomas H. Moorer, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff during meetings in his oval office.

Warren said U. S. policy remained unchanged and the President planned to continue his scheduled troop withdrawal program.

The chief executive planned to announce another troop cut this month which would reduce forces below 69,000, the previous goal set to be reached by May 1.

Faulty income tax snatch hits economy for billions

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Through a serious miscalculation in new tax tables, Americans are paying billions too much through their payroll withholding taxes — money the government would like to see being spent to help spur the economy.

The total amount of overwithholding could amount to up to $8 billion by the end of the year, according to the latest Treasury Department estimates.

And although taxpayers will get the money back as refunds on their 1972 tax returns, the unexpected flow of dollars is upsetting the administration's economic strategy which calls for massive spending now, financed by record budget deficits, to get the economy moving.

"It's a pretty serious problem," a budget official observed Monday. "By next year, everybody figures they'll have inflation under control and all of a sudden we'll be hit with an $8 billion surge."

The Internal Revenue Service (IRS) will begin a special campaign to alert taxpayers to the problem this week by distributing 30-second public service advertisements to television stations around the country.

The ads will urge most workers to file new W4 forms with their employers and to claim a special, extra exemption, something that previously was illegal.

The overwithholding developed when Treasury tax experts miscalculated when they tried to correct a situation where families in which both man and wife worked found they were "underwithheld" for their 1971 taxes.

Last year, in attempting to balance out the tables, the tax writers swung too far in the other direction. In the new withholding tables that took effect in January, a different, and larger group was "overwithheld"—more was taken out of their paychecks than needed to cover tax liability.

The problem is especially acute for single persons, couples where only one spouse is the wage earner, and certain high income persons.

At the time, the government showed little concern. Officials reasoned that as soon as employees saw a bigger than usual chunk being withheld from their checks, they would complain to their employers. Then they could fix the problem by filing a new W4 form to claim the new "standard deduction allowance" in addition to their usual exemptions.

"This program has a self-destruct mechanism," an IRS official predicted with confidence at the time.

It hasn't worked out that way. For reasons unexplained, few persons apparently have bothered to investigate whether they are overwithheld or change their W4 forms.

In addition to its television campaign, the IRS is spot checking employer and mailing posters to companies that explain the problem to workers.

Davis witness testifies

SAN JOSE — Three prosecution witnesses told the Angela Davis trial Monday the kidnapers in the 1970 Marin County shootings demanded the release of the "Soledad Brothers." One of the three witnesses, a sheriff's captain, conceded under cross-examination the demand might have been made in the manner of a political slogan.

Baseball strike continues

NEW YORK — Club owners rejected the offer which would have ended the baseball strike Monday, calling the proposal advanced by Marvin Miller, executive director of the Major League Players Association, "an imprudent approach to the problem." John Gaherin, chief negotiator for the owners, said he had presented Miller's proposal to the owners early Monday night but that they had unanimously agreed not to accept it. (Details page 12.)

Pop fest ends with deaths

VEGA BAJA (UPI) — The Vega Baja pop festival closed Monday night after three days of scorching sun, rock music and four deaths, including one murder and three drownings. The murder and drownings were just some of the sour notes, however. Visitors to the 429-acre site 20 miles west of San Juan reported a wave of thefts Saturday and Sunday nights, as well as several rapes. A spokesman for the organizers said that gangs of local youths had victimized a number of the mainland hippie types.

Malta and China meet

HONG KONG — Malta's Prime Minister Dom Mintoff and Chinese Premier Chou En-lai held talks Monday for the second time since Mintoff's arrival in Peking Sunday, the New China News Agency (NCNA) reported. Also present at the talks were the Maltese government delegation, Chinese Vice Premier Li Hsien-shan, Chinese Vice Foreign Minister Chiao Kun-hua and Chinese Vice Minister of Economic Relations with Foreign Countries, Han Tsung-ching, NCNA said.

Kidnaping suspects questioned

BUENOS AIRES — More than 100 suspects in the kidnaping of Fiat automotive executive Ovidio Sallustro were interrogated Monday, including an unspecified number identified by President Alejandro A. Lanusse as the actual abductors. A Buenos Aires province police spokesman said more than 100 persons had been rounded up in 250 search operations conducted in the past two weeks.

Court bans strict radiation controls

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The states were prohibited by the Supreme Court Monday from imposing stricter radiation controls on nuclear power plants than those used by the federal government.

Specifically the court upheld adverse lower court rulings against a Minnesota law which was tougher than those of the Atomic Energy Commission's regulations. But 13 other states had filed briefs supporting Minnesota's appeal.

Lower level courts ruled that Congress by enacting the Atomic Energy Law had given the federal government exclusive jurisdiction in the field.

The Supreme Court agreed in a brief announcement.

The nuclear test case arose in 1969 when the Northern States Power Co., began building an atomic power plant by permission of the AEC at Monticello, Minn., and routinely applied to the state pollution control agency for the right to dump radioactive wastes into the Mississippi River.

The state granted the permit but imposed stricter restrictions than those contained in federal regulations.

The utility company challenged the state action as a usurpation of the federal government's authority.

Shootout kills 4, injures 11

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (UPI) — Four persons were shot to death and 11 others were injured, five by gunfire, early Monday when a drug war between two Philadelphia gangs touched off a shootout in a crowded nightclub.

Three of the dead were women patrons not involved in the war between the gangs. Public Safety Commissioner Marion F. Floriani said.

Members of the two gangs were among approximately 600 persons in the Club Harlem when the shooting broke out — the result of a quarrel over the theft of $20,000 worth of heroin in February, Floriani said.

Floriani said the first person shot to death was Tyrone Palmer, 22, Philadelphia, allegedly involved in the heroin theft.

"Bedlam broke loose" when Palmer was gunned down, Floriani said, and several other men drew guns and started firing in the dimly lit club.

The three women, Renee Cuff, 24, and Pamela Pollard, 23, both of Philadelphia, and Mrs. Ruth Jenkins, 20, Wilmington, N.J., were hit when 45 to 20 shots were fired by the gang members.

Miss Cuff and Miss Pollard died at the scene, and Mrs. Jenkins died in a hospital nearly 12 hours later of a neck wound.

Mrs. Jenkins' husband, Richard, 25, a Vietnam war veteran, said "everybody hit the floor" when the first shots rang out.

"There were guys pulling guns out from all over the place," Jenkins said. "The lights were dim in there, they couldn't have possibly seen who they were shooting at."

Floriani said three Philadelphia men were being held for questioning as material witnesses. He said police recovered six guns from inside the nightclub.

Charlie Chaplin returns to U.S.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Charlie Chaplin, the immortal "little tramp" of silent films, returned a hero once more Monday to the country which had idolized him for his art and then exiled him for his political and personal life.

The master comedian, frail and snowy-haired as he approaches his 83rd birthday, flew to the United States to attend a "Salute to Chaplin" at Lincoln Center for the Performing Arts in New York and accept a special Oscar at the Academy Awards ceremony in Hollywood.

Chaplin had left the country vowing never to return, but that was 20 years ago and he was smiling and blowing kisses when he arrived Monday from Bermuda.

At least one hundred newsmen, photographers and television crewmen waited behind barricades and several hundred spectators crowded at the windows of the terminal for a glimpse of Chaplin.

First the other passengers left the Boeing 727 by a walkway leading directly into the terminal. Then Chaplin emerged alone at the head of a boarding ramp.

The weather was sunny but there was a chill wind and Chaplin though hatless wore his tan topcoat buttoned to the neck as he climbed slowly down the stairs of the ramp, grasping the railing with both hands except when he stopped to wave to photographers.

Gona O'Neill Chaplin followed her husband, keeping a supporting hand on his back. They were accompanied by Nicholas Sistovaris, husband of their second oldest daughter, Josephine.

David Rockefeller Jr., chairman of the "Salute to Chaplin" and Martin E. Segal, co-chairman of the salute and president of the Film Society of Lincoln Center, waited at the bottom of the ramp to shake hands with the Chaplins.

From there Chaplin walked about 150 feet to a black rented limousine which waited to take him to the Plaza Hotel. Again the step of the once nimble actor was slow and he placed each foot with care as his wife followed with her hand on his back.

"I am very happy to be in New York again and to pay tribute to the notable work of the Film Society of Lincoln Center," Chaplin said in a statement issued for him by the society.

Debbie Starks

E.S. girl missing

EAST STROUDSBURG — East Stroudsburg Police are still appealing for information concerning the whereabouts of 16-year-old Debbie Starks, of 148 Day St., East Stroudsburg, who has been missing from her home since March 18.

Debbie was last seen wearing blue slacks, a blue shirt and a brown quilt coat. She is five feet, three inches tall, has short blond hair and blue eyes, and is of a slight build.

Anyone knowing where she may be or seeing anyone who matches her description is urged to contact the East Stroudsburg Police department immediately.

'Confused' Berrigan jurors again recess deliberations

HARRISBURG, Pa. (UPI)—Confused Harrisburg Seven jurors had U.S. District Judge R. Dixon Herman read them his instructions regarding the nation's conspiracy laws for a third time Monday night before recessing five days of deliberations until 9 a.m. today.

The panel of nine women and three men sent a note asking for another explanation only moments after Herman had explained to them four other points of law—the use of circumstantial evidence, what constitutes entrapment by authorities, what comprises a "threatening communication," and an interpretation of statutes involving destruction of government property.

After the 10-minute explanation by Herman at 4:40 p.m., the jurors—who convicted the Rev. Philip F. Berrigan of a peripheral charge Sunday—turned down the judge's offer of an immediate recess until today and returned to the jury room. Then came the request for another explanation of the conspiracy laws.

Earlier Monday, the jurors told Herman they could not agree on the other nine charges against Berrigan and six other antiwar activists. They asked to be excused, but Herman refused to declare a hung jury until the panel made another attempt to reach a decision.

Berrigan was found guilty of smuggling a letter out of the Lewisburg Federal Penitentiary on May 24, 1970.

Jury Foreman Harold Sheets, a Harrisburg tax accountant, told Herman Monday morning that the jurors were prepared to continue discussing the case but he said the members wanted to hear his explanation of the conspiracy law for a third time. Sheets also asked for the complete testimony of the government's star witness, FBI informer Boyd F. Douglas Jr.

Douglas, 31, was imprisoned with Berrigan at Lewisburg in 1970, testified for 14 days. Reports he made to the FBI were the basis of the government's charges that the seven plotted to kidnap Henry A. Kissinger, blow up Washington heating tunnels and raid draft boards.

Herman refused to give them the entire transcript of Douglas' testimony or to reread his two-hour charge made last Thursday when the jury received the case.

Herman said if the jury could give him specific parts of the testimony and the charge they wanted to hear, he would read the portions to them in open court.

"If I understand you correctly," Sheets said, "we can submit to you the points on which we may get more information out of the Douglas testimony and out of your charge?"

"That's the way I would like you to proceed," Herman replied.

Railroad operation plan set

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—The bankrupt Penn Central Railroad Monday filed the first phase of a reorganization plan which it said could create a company strong enough to operate "in bad times as well as good."

The report filed with the U.S. District Court by the four trustees of the Penn Central Transportation Co. called, as expected, for reduction in surplus employees, elimination of uneconomical and unnecessary freight lines and full compensation for passenger service, plus a substantial increase in freight traffic.

The report came almost two years from June 21, 1970 when the $6 billion corporation, product of a merger of the Pennsylvania and New York Central Railroads, filed for reorganization under the federal bankruptcy laws, saying it was "virtually without cash" and could not pay its debts.

The court-appointed trustees said the report submitted to federal judge John P. Fullam, who is overseeing operations of the railroad, should be considered as part one of the reorganization plan.

The trustees said quarterly reassessments of the railroad's situation would be made, with completion of the plan by April 1, 1973.

In the voluminous report, the trustees said that "from the standpoint of the public interest, if reorganization could be achieved on the proposed basis, the reorganized company would be left in a strong financial position for sustained future railroad operations in bad times as well as in good."

In an attached statement to the report, the trustees noted that a total of 26,254 claimants have filed proofs of claim against the railroad totaling about $3.3 billion.

The trustees claimed however, the net aggregate liability of the company was approximately $1.6 billion after deducting duplicate claims, exempted claims, amounts representing claims.

In the attached statement, the trustees said they would pursue matters concerning claims against the company which must ultimately be settled and those which may require litigation.

Assembly prepares to vote on home rule, drug reform

HARRISBURG (UPI)—The General Assembly returns to the Capitol Tuesday facing a mountain of work and only a few hectic hours to level it.

Three important conference committee reports are on the agenda in both chambers while the House Appropriations Committee is scheduled to hold its first budget hearing.

Normally it would take at least a week for the legislators to act on the conference reports but they hope to pass them today and quickly return to their campaigning for the April 25 primary.

The General Assembly hastily adjourned early in March leaving the home rule, drug reform and mobile and modular housing bills in conference committees.

When the committees completed their work late last week today's special session was called.

April 23 deadline

One reason was a constitutional mandate that the home rule bill be enacted before April 23. The other was that passage of the bills would enhance their primary campaigns.

The home rule bill will get top priority. There were indications the conference report would win easy acceptance in both the House and Senate.

Overall, the bill allows local and county governments to make most of the decisions currently made by the legislature on such problems as taxation and zoning.

The compromise bill forces local governments to accept services now provided by their counties but grants them the right to refuse new ones if the municipality wants to provide them.

County and municipal governments have the option of accepting or rejecting home rule.

If they want it, a commission must be elected and its report submitted to the voters for their approval.

Drug reform package

The legislature also is expected to pass a two-bill drug reform package which consolidates state drug programs and provides new penalties which are softer on users and stiffer on pushers.

The bill establishes a seven member council on drugs and alcohol. Six members would be appointed by the governor subject to Senate confirmation. The governor would be the seventh.

The council would coordinate all state drug and alcohol control, prevention and treatment programs and prepare a master plan dealing with those programs within one year.

The bill also requires the use of existing mental health facilities for treatment of persons committed for drug addiction and establishes emergency treatment centers.

The penalty for possession of a small amount of marijuana would be reduced from 2-5 years imprisonment and a $2,000 fine to 30 days and a $500 fine.

The penalty for possession of other drugs would be one year in prison and a $5,000 fine.

A special provision in the bill is aimed at drug pushers who are caught with large amounts of illegal drugs but cannot be convicted of selling them.

The bill makes sale and possession of more than enough of illegal drugs for personal use equal crimes.

Housing bills uncertain

Indications of quick passage are not so clear for the mobile and modular housing bills, which set up commissions to recommend regulations for both industries.

Charge denied by ITT

NEW YORK (UPI)—International Telephone and Telegraph Corp. (ITT) said Monday it paid "millions of dollars annually" in federal income taxes during the five years for which Sen. George McGovern charged the corporation had escaped federal taxes entirely.

ITT issued a statement labeling the accusations leveled by McGovern Sunday "completely erroneous and misleading" and "completely without basis."

"The fact of the matter is that ITT has been paying substantial federal income taxes during the years mentioned, amounting to millions of dollars annually," ITT said.

The statement did not give any more exact figure for the federal taxes and spokesman said none was immediately available. But it estimated 1970 payments by ITT and its subsidiaries in local, state and municipal taxes at "more than $130 million."

McGovern charged in a national television interview that ITT paid no federal taxes for the last five years and accused the corporation of listing a $400,000 gift to the Republican National Convention as a "business expense" in a report filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC).

Methadone controls proposed

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The government proposed new controls Monday on methadone, the substitute drug used to combat heroin addiction, because it is being diverted to illegitimate use and causing more and more overdose deaths.

The principal suggested remedy was to expand the system of 450 community methadone "maintenance" programs around the country, and to halt distribution of the drug by drugstores and individual doctors.

Announcement of the move against abuse was made by Dr. Jerome H. Jaffe, director of the Special Action Office for Drug Abuse Prevention.

"We mean to control diversion and expand that (maintenance) system so people can get treatment," he told a news conference. He said 20,000 to 25,000 heroin addicts now want to try the substitute but cannot get it.

Methadone, itself addictive, is an inexpensive synthetic drug which satisfies an addict's craving for heroin.

Fire damages five buildings

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—Fire of undetermined origin wrecked the S. S. Kresge Co. department store and damaged five other businesses at the suburban 48-store Southland Shopping Center Monday.

No injuries were reported, but unofficial damage estimates ranged from $500,000 to $1 million.

Fire officials said the blaze broke out at 9:20 a.m. and within minutes flames poured from the front of the department store.

Amateurs 'dig' historic castle

LONDON (UPI)—Scores of amateur archaeologists scratched, picked and shoveled Monday in a last try to beat the bulldozer to the ruin of a Thameside castle where three queens of King Henry VIII once lived.

"Look here. Look at this," Ed Slater called, laying aside his spade to show a chunk of stone he'd recovered from part of the 100 yards of crumbling walls and turrets in the shadow of Blackfriars Bridge and St. Paul's Cathedral.

Carved on the stone in bold relief were two leaves, gently tapering, delicate, ladies' leaves, perhaps.

Slater, a 56-year-old printer by trade, laughed. "For all we know, we've just found Catherine of Aragon's boudoir, or Anne Boleyn's, or the other Anne—of Cleves," he said.

Quite probable. The ruins have been verified as those of Baynard's Castle, built in 1487 by Henry VII. It was the third such building in the area. The first dated from William and Conqueror, 1066.

After months of delay, excavation began three weeks ago. But urban redevelopment—another way of saying a new Thames embankment road for downtown London's clogged east-west traffic—is bringing a speedy end to the dig.

Nick Farrant, vice-chairman of West London's Wandsworth Historical Society and a supervisor at the excavation, said there was "absolutely no doubt of the castle's historical importance."

"We know three of Henry VIII's wives lived here. Queen Mary was proclaimed here. Shakespeare set part of his 'Richard' here," Farrant said. "The fact we have so little time to dig here is nothing short of criminal."

Single woman's love singing affair

TOBYHANNA — Bridget Grady, a bachelor girl, loves John McIntyre, who is married.

Scandalous? Not really, for Bridget recently observed her 101st birthday, which makes her a full half-century older than John, a mere stripling of 51.

The "love affair" began on Bridget's 99th birthday when John, as a member of the Toby Tones, Tobyhanna Army Depot's choral group, sang several solos at the party held in the Holiday Hill Nursing Home, near Newfoundland.

The numbers included "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling" and other of Miss Grady's all-time favorites.

"She choked up and couldn't say anything," recalls McIntyre, "but I knew she enjoyed them very much."

Lance Wilkinson

Rotarians honor youth

CRESCO — Lance Wilkinson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wilkinson of Cresco, was recently selected Barrett Youth of the Month for March.

He was a guest of the Rotary Club of the Pocono Mountains who presented the youth with a certificate of recognition and a plaque of Rotary's Four-Way Test.

Wilkinson was chosen on the basis of being a good student, having engaged in extra-curricular activities and have manifested those traits that mark him as a leader and a good citizen.

His high school activities include marching band, concert band, library assistant, junior choir, set construction for annual play, band color guard, yearbook editor and member of the east of "Arsenic and Old Lace" and "Annie, Get Your Gun."

Upon graduation from Pocono Mountain High School, Wilkinson plans to enter Indiana University of Pennsylvania and major in mathematics.

Committee chairman appointed

HACKETTSTOWN, N.J. — Alan Cooper, chairman of radio-television at Centenary College for Women, has been appointed to the newly created Public Radio Advisory Committee of the New Jersey Public Broadcasting Authority, Trenton.

Cooper was appointed to the committee by Dr. Edward W. Seay, president of the college, at the request of Lawrence T. Frymire, executive director of the authority.

The committee was established to assist the Public Broadcasting Authority in starting the utilization of public radio in New Jersey and to lend support to the authority in improving and expanding public radio throughout the state.

The committee will meet periodically throughout the year and will serve as the official liaison organization to work with the authority staff toward the betterment of public radio.

The organizational and charting meeting will take place March 23.

Cooper, who joined the Centenary faculty in 1964, graduated from Emerson College the same year with a B.S. degree in broadcasting. He is presently enrolled in the master's program at Emerson.

Miss Grady, who is blind but still has some of her hearing, tapped along with her feet as the Tones went through their program, to which all guests of the home had been invited.

"It's such a wonderful feeling to bring a little happiness to those old people," says McIntyre.

He experienced the same emotion at the Veterans Administration Hospital in Wilkes-Barre, where the Tones sang for long-term patients on two recent occasions.

So far as he's concerned, there's no better way to spend an evening.

Since being elected the first president of the Tones last year, he has asked the depot's Information Officer to arrange additional bookings for the group. He believes such concerts do much to further the image of Tobyhanna as "The Depot With A Heart."

Joined in '67 McIntyre joined the Tones soon after he came to work at Tobyhanna in 1967. A lyric tenor, he trained professionally with Norbert K. Betti and other highly rated area instructors.

For eight years, he sang with Scranton's Catholic Choral Club and, in 1966, he and his wife, a soprano, performed in "70 Stitches," a musical staged at Marywood College.

McIntyre says he always enjoyed singing, even as a child. During the past two decades, he estimates he has sung about 300 couples "down the aisle" in regional weddings.

Currently, he is wondering about the propriety of performing at his son John's nuptials in June.

He and his wife, the former Anne Gibbons, are the parents of six children, ranging in age from eight to 21. The couple met during a Novena at St. Ann's in Scranton in 1948.

A World War II Army veteran, McIntyre earned four battle stars while serving with an artillery unit in the

Rep. Foster blasts budget cut

HARRISBURG — Rep. William W. Foster (R-139th District) charged today that Governor Shapp took $1 million away from Tourist Promotion to "help pay $15.4 million in salaries to the 2,208 new welfare workers he wants to hire in the coming fiscal year."

Foster, who represents the Pocono Mountain Counties of Wayne, Pike and Monroe, questioned Shapp's priorities for State spending. "Why eliminate a $1 million matching fund program that creates jobs in private industry and then add 2,208 State jobs that are paid out of the taxpayers' pocket?" he asked. "It doesn't make sense."

Foster said that the three counties he represents received $19,455 to help promote the area's major industry—Tourism—this fiscal year from the State Bureau of Tourist Promotion.

"This money," he pointed out, "was matched dollar for dollar at the local level. It was used to convince Pennsylvanians to spend their vacation in the Poconos. It was used to convince out-of-staters to come to Pennsylvania for their vacations."

"This program created jobs for our people. The program provided tax revenue for the State and local governments; it resulted in profits for a multitude of businesses. Now Shapp wants to kill it in favor of one of his liberal give-away schemes."

"Tourism is the second largest industry in the Commonwealth no matter what the Governor may think. If he believes welfare should be our biggest industry, his budget certainly supports that contention because more than $1 billion is allocated to it in the next fiscal year."

Foster said a realistic reappraisal of State spending priorities based on the cost-cutting recommendations of his own Management Task Force could result in a reduction in State taxes with no loss in State services.

The Toby Tones, says McIntyre, "is one of the greatest things that ever happened to me."

He thinks Charles Williams of Throop, the director, is a "talented, dedicated individual," and also has high praise for Jack Roth, the Tones accompanist, whom he describes as "a real pro."

Close knit group He observes members of the group are "close-knit," public-spirited and some of the finest people I've ever known."

At present, he notes, the Tones need about 10 more members in all voice categories, and an additional pianist.

"We also want singers," he emphasizes, "who are willing to go out on evening concerts."

He would like to average at least one appearance a month at regional hospitals, orphanages and homes for the infirm.

Already penciled is Aug. 18 at the Holiday Hill Nursing Home. That's the day Bridget, the Tones' greatest fan, turns 102.

Students inducted to Society

BRODHEADSVILLE — In a special candle lighting ceremony Thursday evening, 42 Pleasant Valley High School and junior high school students were inducted into the Junior and Senior National Honor Societies.

Former alumni Dr. William Martucci, Jr. and Dr. John Mills, Jr. spoke to the students. President of the Senior Honor Society John Muir was master of ceremonies and presented certificates to the senior students; Wendy Christman, president of the Junior Honor Society presented certificates to incoming junior high school members.

Rollene Neuhaus reviewed the purpose of the societies. Norma Weiss discussed the qualifications for membership in the organization and Jeff Kreger presented brief remarks on the history and emblem of the societies.

The candlelight service was conducted by Jean Serfass, Wendy Christman, Cindy Serfass and Colia Gougher.

Seniors inducted into the Senior Honor Society were Judith Cramer, Pat Cramer, John Donscheltz, Mary Enderly, Bonnie Houser, Gary Jones, Melody Meixsell, Joyce Meyer, Susan Seifrit, Anne Smiley and Donna Smith.

Juniors inducted into the Senior High School Honor Society were: Lora Bogart, Mary Bucko, Dennis Burger, Susan Conklin, Kim DePae, Sheryl Francis, Margie Johnson, Joanne Kleintop and Sherry Kreger.

Also Thomas Kresge, Wanda Kunkle, Beverly Lohr, Bill Lowenburg, Leslie Murdock, Burl Puddiner, Deborah Schneider, Wanda Schoenberger, JoAnn Semmel, Debra Smale, and Linda Stroud.

Students inducted into the Junior National Honor Society were: Michele Arner, Rowland Beers, Judy Dorshimer, Robert Frehulfer, Alice Green, Brenda Laton, Vance Meixsell, Pat Meyer, Todd Serfass, Jane Spengler, and Elizabeth Williams.

Camp counselor course offered

SCRANTON — The Scranton Pocono Girl Scout Council is offering a Troop Camp Counselor Course for the troop leaders in the area who wish to take their Junior, Cadette, or Senior troops on camping trips. The course will consist of two sessions.

The first which will be held on Wednesday, will teach the participants how to plan with a group of girls for a weekend of camping. This session will be offered in two locations. Girl Scout House in Scranton and the Central Pocono Am-balance Building in Tannersville.

The second session will consist of a weekend at Camp Archbald on April 15 and 16. During this session the adults will practice many of the skills needed for camping, such as firebuilding and outdoor cooking.

Because the number of participants is limited, registrations should be made as soon as possible with Mrs. Betty Pedrick, Girl Scout House, 333 Madison Avenue, Scranton. A fee will be charged to cover the cost of the food for the weekend.

A pre-requisite for taking this course is that a participant must have completed the Basic Group Leadership Course. This is necessary so that she will be familiar with Girl Scout program and the patrol system.

This training course is one of the services offered by the Scranton Pocono Girl Scout Council, a member agency of the Lackawanna United Fund, the Monroe County Community Chest.

Honor assembly slated for Lehigh

BETHLEHEM — Some 1200 top high school scholars will spend Wednesday, April 5 at Lehigh University, as participants in Lehigh's 8th annual National Honor Society Conference.

The delegates, members of National Honor Society chapters, represent 54 schools throughout the Lehigh Valley and surrounding areas.

Eighteen Lehigh University faculty members, who are specialists on subjects of vital importance to modern society, will present issues of national priority, during the morning session of the conference, the general theme of which is "The Scholar in a World of Changing Values."

Dr. John J. Karakash, dean of Lehigh's College of Engineering, will be the featured speaker at the afternoon session. His topic will be "The Meaning of Your Education."

Dr. Warren G. Davis, associate professor of education at Lehigh, is chairman of the conference, which is co-sponsored by the University's graduate School of Education and the Region Nine Pennsylvania Assn. of Secondary School Principals (PASSP) National Honor Society Committee.

Region Nine includes Berks, Lancaster, Lebanon, Lehigh, Northampton and Schuylkill counties.

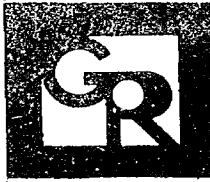

Dr. W. Denning Lewis, president of Lehigh University, and Dr. Davis, will introduce the young scholars to the day's program at an opening session scheduled for 9:30 a.m. in Grace Hall on the Lehigh campus.

Following the introductory sessions, students will assemble in small groups to hear in-depth discussions by the University scientists and scholars.

Between the morning and afternoon sessions, attendees will be given a tour of the Lehigh campus and will eat lunch in the University Center.

Disassembly line.

It can chew a car to shreds, turning it into a pile of reusable scrap metal in almost no time at all. Fifty cars an hour—mass-reduced to shreds. This is the disassembly line.

And it has plenty to disassemble. Twenty million old auto hulks are rusting away in this country right now. And every year 8-10 million more cars are scrapped.

Obviously, and desperately, we need more "disassembly lines." But the more junked cars they chew up, the more electricity they chew up too.

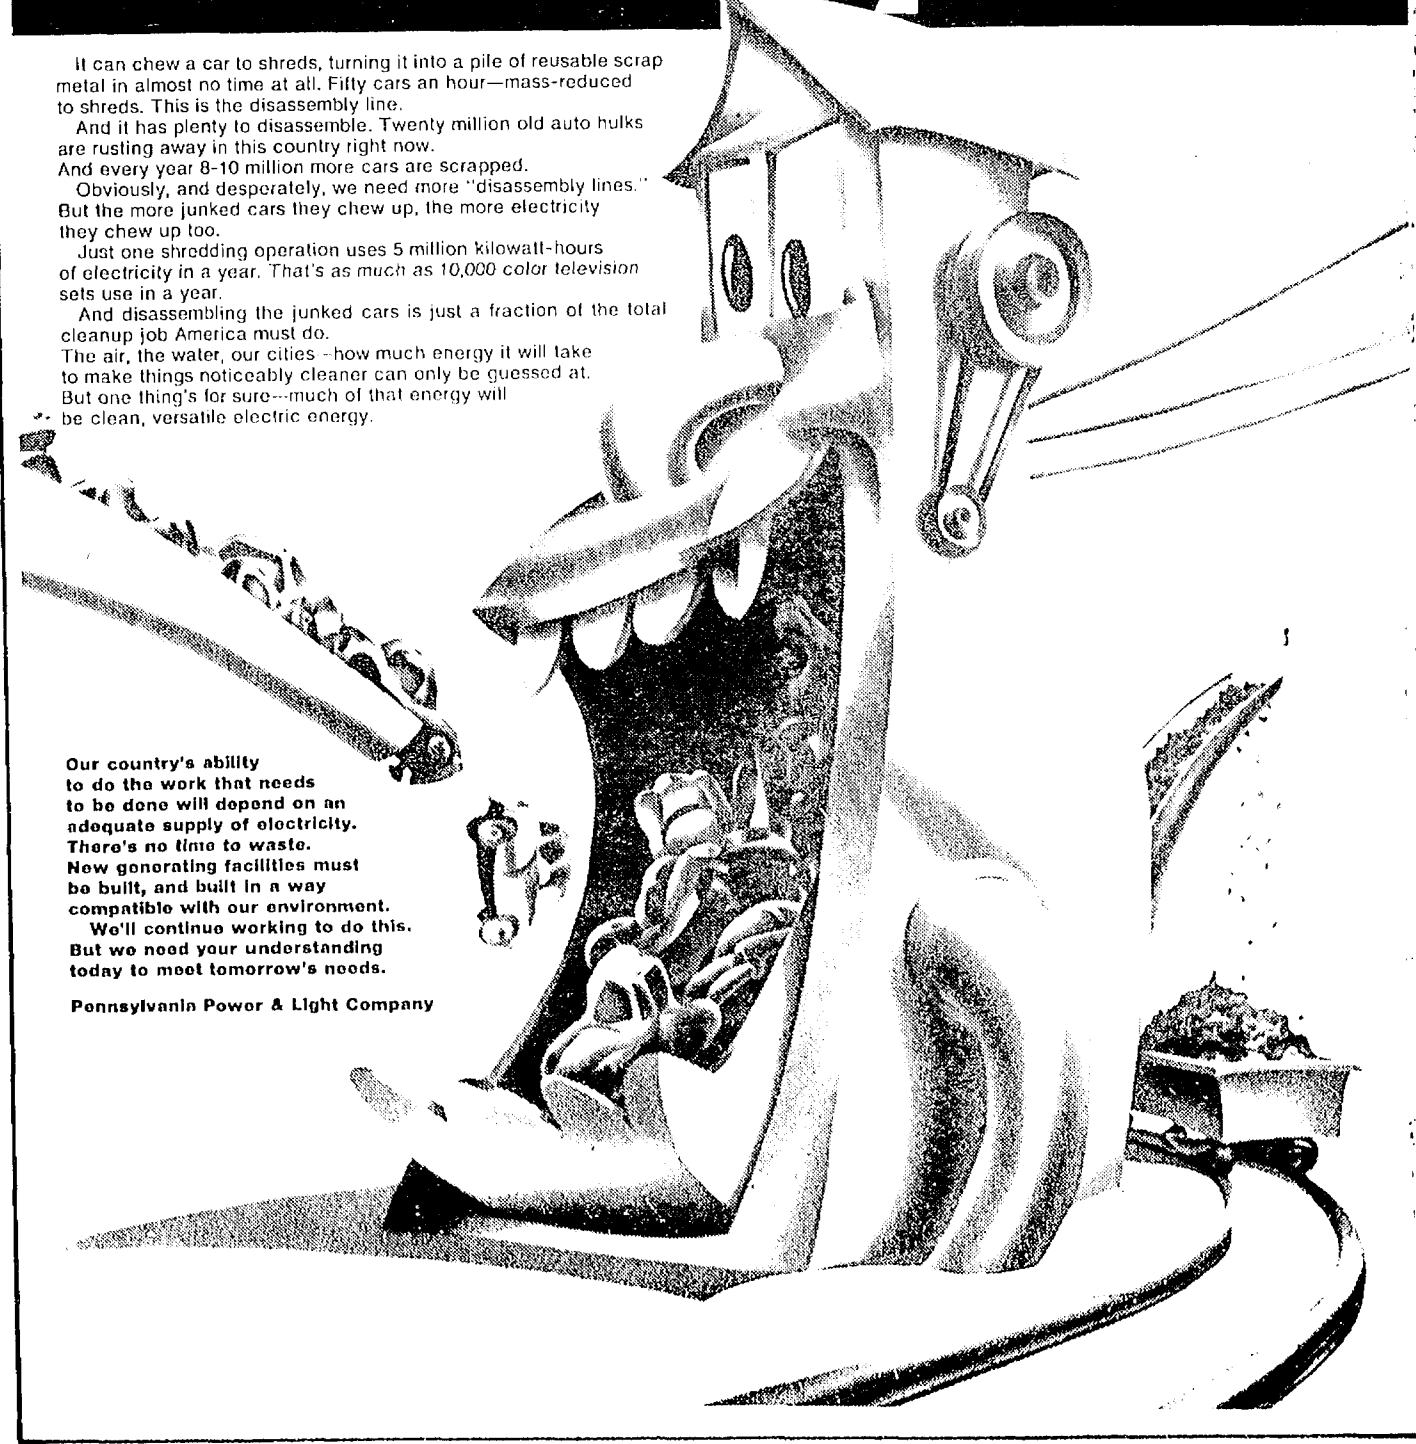

Just one shredding operation uses 5 million kilowatt-hours of electricity in a year. That's as much as 10,000 color television sets use in a year.

And disassembling the junked cars is just a fraction of the total cleanup job America must do.

The air, the water, our cities—how much energy it will take to make things noticeably cleaner can only be guessed at. But one thing's for sure—much of that energy will be clean, versatile electric energy.

Our country's ability to do the work that needs to be done will depend on an adequate supply of electricity. There's no time to waste. New generating facilities must be built, and built in a way compatible with our environment. We'll continue working to do this. But we need your understanding today to meet tomorrow's needs.

Bus strike talks to resume

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — A spokesman for striking Continental Trailways bus drivers said Monday a federal mediator informed them contract negotiations would resume in Washington this Wednesday.

About 310 drivers of Continental's Safeway Trails Division, which operates between New York and Washington with stops at Baltimore and Philadelphia, went on strike Sunday.

The spokesman for Local 1699 of the United Transportation Union (UTU) claimed it was the "company representatives who walked out of the negotiating session" last Saturday.

The spokesman said the drivers "aren't asking for more money. All we want are the benefits that other companies have had for years."

Candidates press for lead in final hours of primary

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI)— Sen. George S. McGovern, going all out to cash in on his chances of winning his first primary of the 1972 campaign in Wisconsin today, charged Monday "the Nixon administration is owned body and soul by big business."

McGovern and Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey were considered the men to beat less than 24 hours before the polls opened in Wisconsin.

Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, the sometime frontrunner of the Democratic field, was rated third by most experts assessing the pack of 12 candidates listed as bidding for Wisconsin's 67 Democratic National Convention delegates.

But the "wild card" of the pack, Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace, could spoil all their showings if Wisconsin's traditional primary crossover voting from Republicans goes his way.

McGovern's superb organization was generally credited with pushing him into a stretch run with Humphrey in the closing hours of the Wisconsin campaign.

McGovern told a labor meeting Monday morning he felt like a winner on the basis of an AFL-CIO poll last week showing him ahead.

Lacing into his Republican opposition, he said, "I charge flatly that the Nixon administration is owned body and soul by big business."

He promised that, if elected, he would get to work on paring down corporate tax advantages.

McGovern was up at dawn making his final pitch. So were the other candidates.

What they did: Humphrey. His voice slightly hoarse and his eyes watering after a rough week of campaigning, he told an early morning news conference he has been a "trail blazer" in legislation and "I am pleased so many have now joined my caravan."

Still favored by a slight edge to take it in Wisconsin today, Humphrey said he had entered the lists "to prove to myself and to others that I am a viable, electable candidate."

Muskie—Bidding hard for the Polish vote of the South Side of Milwaukee, he welcomed the visitation of Rep. Roman Pucinski of Chicago, the Democratic nominee for Senate in Illinois, who came to Milwaukee to lend him a hand. Also present was Detroit Mayor Roman S. Gribbs, who broke from impartiality and said of Muskie, "I simply feel he is the best candidate."

Wallace Scheduled a fast series of his country music and down-to-earth rallies, ending in Sheboygan north of Milwaukee Monday night.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson—Ripped into the stands of Wallace, McGovern and Muskie on what may be the hottest issue in the Wisconsin election, property taxes.

He said he wants to cut fat from the national budget, but "I'm not going to play political games with our national security ... I'm not getting aboard this Alice in Wonderland bandwagon—no matter how fast it's rolling or how popular it may be."

Douglas, Court differ on women

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Justice William O. Douglas thinks it's about time states treated women on the same basis as men in the jury box but he can't win his Supreme Court colleagues to this view.

According to Douglas, the Court had a perfect chance to do something about the situation in the case of Claude Alexander, a Louisiana black who challenged the racial composition of the grand jury which indicted him and also the fact there were no women on it.

Douglas, who generally wants to decide more issues than any other justice, accused the Court Monday of taking the easy way out and latching onto the routine race question when the exclusion of women will be a continuing problem.

Louisiana gives women an absolute exemption from jury service unless they expressly indicate a desire to serve.

Douglas noted 10 states allow women an exemption from jury service on the basis of sex if they request it. They are Alaska, Arkansas, Georgia, Kansas, Missouri, Nevada, New York, Rhode Island, Tennessee and Wisconsin. The District of Columbia does likewise.

Douglas recalled that in 1872 the Supreme Court upheld a state law denying women the right to practice law and said Louisiana is still thinking in those antiquated terms.

He quoted this part of the 1872 opinion: "Man is, or should be, women's protector and defender. The natural and proper timidity and delicacy which belongs to the female sex evidently unfits it for many of the occupations of civil life....

"The paramount destiny and mission of women are to fulfill the noble and benign offices of wife and mother. This is the law of the Creator."

Commented Douglas: "Classifications based on sex are no longer insulated from judicial scrutiny by a legislative judgment that 'woman's place is in the home,' or that woman is by her 'nature' ill-suited for a particular task." "But such a judgment is precisely that which underpins the absolute exemption from jury service at issue."

He disputed Louisiana's argument that women may volunteer.

"Neither man nor woman can be expected to volunteer for jury service," he said. "... A statutory procedure which has the effect of excluding all women does not produce a representative jury and is therefore repugnant to our constitutional scheme."

USIA director quits to blast Fulbright

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Bruce Herschensohn resigned as motion picture director of the U.S. Information Agency Monday, saying he wanted to be free to express his feeling that Sen. J. William Fulbright is causing the nation "great injury" by criticizing USIA operations abroad.

His resignation came after he said on a weekend television program sponsored by Sen. James L. Buckley, the New York Conservative, that Fulbright was "very simplistic, very naive and stupid" in his views about U.S. information efforts in other countries.

"In a friendly and flattering exchange of letters, USIA Director Frank Shakespeare, who has differed with Fulbright on the same subject, told Herschensohn: 'Your loyalty, dedication and patriotism have been to me, and to others whom your life has touched, an inspiration. In an age of compromise, you live by principle.'"

In noting Herschensohn's first production, "Years of Lightning ... Day of Drums," the prize-winning USIA documentary on President John F. Kennedy, and his other works, Shakespeare said: "Some choose to refer to this as propaganda. Others know your work for what it is ... a cry of the human spirit in a time of peril and stress." Fulbright, D- Ark., chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, has contended that the information efforts are a relic of the cold war and ought to be eliminated. He fought the Dollar officially devalued

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon signed legislation Monday to provide the first formal devaluation of the dollar since 1934.

In signing a bill increasing the official price of gold from $35 to $38 an ounce, Nixon said the move was "a significant step forward in our overall effort for a stronger and more competitive U.S. economy."

The U.S. action was required under a currency realignment agreement reached by non-Communist nations last Dec. 18 in Washington. It is commonly known as the Smithsonian agreement, having been negotiated at a meeting at the Smithsonian Institution.

Paul A. Volcker, Treasury undersecretary for monetary affairs, told newsmen at the White House the formal gold price increase would produce few new results because international money markets have been operating on the devalued dollar since the Smithsonian accord.

continued funding of Radio Free Europe and Radio Liberty, which only a few days ago were given appropriations for operation for the balance of this year.

A few days ago Fulbright sought to prevent Buckley from presenting on his program, which is produced for New York constituents, a USIA film on Czechoslovakia on grounds that USIA material is produced solely for foreign consumption.

Tearing down federal property has part in education

To rise again

The old outbuilding at Dimmicks Ferry, framed by the trunk of a giant maple in which the high-water cable for the ferry is embedded, was dismantled by three Westtown School seniors whose three weeks of volunteer work for the Park Service is part of their senior requirements.

BY BOBBY WESTBROOK

MILLBROOK, N.J. — Then there were these long-haired boys tearing down government buildings in the proposed National Recreation Center.

But they were doing it not only with the full permission of the National Park Service but with high praise for their endeavors.

"They're good boys," said Albert Dillahunty, park historian, "and they've been doing good work."

Their work is connected with the historical restoration of Millbrook, once bustling village on the New Jersey side of the Delaware, which is being restored by the Park Service. As a typical village of the 1800's when it was at its height.

The boys are all seniors at Westtown School, a private school near West Chester, and the three weeks they spent working on the Millbrook Restoration is part of their curriculum. Every senior has a work break in which he works at a job in line with his field of interest and approved by his faculty advisor.

For the three boys at Millbrook, interest in history, architecture and the outdoors combined for the jobs to which they were assigned.

The trio spent three weeks on the site, sleeping on the second floor of the General Store of the village, cooking their own meals and coping with the vagaries of the March winter.

For one of the boys, both the area and the work were familiar. He is Daniel Cohen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Cohen of Sandhill, and on a summer job at Quiet Valley Farm Museum helped to move a barn.

He has also worked on excavations for Indian artifacts at Millford one summer, and plans to be a history major in college.

For the other two boys, this is a new venture. Bob Tabler of Norfolk, Va. thinks he might like to go on an archaeological "dig" someday. Ed Crook of Westtown, in taking buildings apart, learned a lot about how they had been put together.

Their first assignment was to remove the shed-like accretions which had grown up through the years in the Kimble house across from Millbrook Church, to reveal the original building.

They tore off sheds and broke up the "skin" of concrete which covered the rubble of stone fill forming a sort of patio surrounding the original building.

The building itself has been "adopted" by the Warren County Historical Society which will furnish it. Another building down the lane, the former Johnson House, has been adopted by the Essex County Historical Society.

These two buildings, plus a third house to be restored by the Park Service, will be in addition to the hotel, the store and post office, the church and schoolhouse which were open to the public during Millbrook Days and subsequent weekends last summer.

The boys will also have had a hand in the first building to be torn down and reconstructed at the Millbrook site.

The final chore of their assignment was dismantling a small two-story building at

Shedding its years

The Kimble House at Millbrook Village was another project the boys accomplished, tearing down the sheds and accretions of later years. The original structure has been adopted by the Warren County Historical Society.

Dimmicks Ferry which will be put back together again to be used as a cross-roads blacksmith shop, complete with weekend blacksmith, at Millbrook.

Working with Ray Palmer, newly appointed resident Naturalist with the Delaware Water Gap National Recreation Area, they sorted the material: the roof tree and triangled supports, the uprights, window sills, door frames and floorboards, until only the skeleton of the building remains.

The building at Dimmicks Ferry is even older than the Ferry House itself, which was built by the Shoemaker family, with the small outbuilding later used as a tenant house.

This was before the ferry and the house were taken over by the Dimmicks. Dimmicks Ferry it remained for more than 150 years, from 1831 to 1938.

In the summer, the ferry was "walked" across the river by means of a cable laid across the bottom of the river and threaded through pulleys on the ferry itself.

With a notched stick, the ferryman could get hold of the cable at one end of the ferry and by walking to the other end pull it by its own length before repeating the process.

During high water, a high water cable was used. Fastened high on either bank, the cable was held by iron bars, one of which is still embedded in the blasted trunk of one of the giant maples which surrounded the site.

Letting out the back of the ferry, the force of the current would itself propel it across the river.

Mrs. Horace Walters of East Stroudsburg, the former Elizabeth Dimmick, says that her father, who lived at the Ferry House as a boy, remembers when folk from all up and down the river would drive to the ferry house and fasten their rigs to the giant maples.

Dimmick would ferry them across and they would walk up the long lane to attend services at the Zion Methodist Church on the Pennsylvania side, and after services come back across the ferry and go rattling back home.

Both the ferry house and the church will be within the flood zone of the Tocks Island Dam which is to be built a short distance below the site, and the farm house will be razed.

But the small outbuilding will be preserved. Even as the work progressed, Palmer came up with another relic of the past. Wrapped in rotting old burlap, he discovered an iron what-is-it, evidently hand forged.

About a foot long, it has a square wrench-type arrangement at one end, and at the other a shield-shaped hallow. Once it is identified it may well find a place in the blacksmith shop which the original building will become.

The unpaid work of the three high school boys will also become an unseen but vital part of the historical restoration. Naturalist Palmer who came here in January to become acquainted with the natural environment of the recreation area before the busy summer program begins, also had a chance to learn something of the nature of boys.

"They've been mighty good workers," he said.

As for the boys, one of the requirements of the work sessions is keeping a journal of their experiences and what the work included.

They might also include in their journals what it was like to be the sole living inhabitants of a deserted village in the late winter where, at night, the old building creaked and groaned to itself, and a screen door squeaked as it swung to and fro.

Attend Scotch Festival held in Dunedin

TOBYHANNA — Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. Wilton of Tobyhanna have returned from a six-week vacation stay at Dunedin, Fla. as guests of Mrs. Wilton's sister and brother-in-law, City Commissioner Robert Longstreet and Mrs. Longstreet.

While in Dunedin Mr. and Mrs. Wilton attended the three-day Scottish Highland Games and Festival which featured the Cameron Highlander of Ottawa, Canada as guest band. Events included a military Tattoo and Retreat ceremony, the Ceilidh (pronounced Kaylee) variety show and a full day of games traditional in Scotland for centuries.

Besides the Tossing the Caber and Sheaf, there were eight bagpipe bands in competition for the state championship, and in the finale to the games 125 pipers and drummers participated in a grand "march past."

Dunedin, the Gaelic name for Edinburgh, was founded by Scots about 1870 and the games annually mark this Scottish heritage. The city, on the central Gulf coast, is a community of 20,000.

The Wiltons enjoyed reading The Record, sent to them daily, during their stay in Florida.

WSCS plans family supper

EAST STROUDSBURG — A combination family covered dish supper and the meeting of the Women's Society of Christian Service of the East Stroudsburg Methodist Church will be held Wednesday, April 12, at 6:30 p.m.

Members are asked to bring a dish to share and table service for the family. A business meeting will be held at 7:30 followed by a musical program at 8 p.m. featuring Mrs. Ruth Porter and Mrs. Esther Eden.

Members of Circle 3 will be hostesses.

Family night for Lions of Portland

PORTLAND — Family night was observed by the Lions Club of Portland at a dinner at Tocks-Mora Inn north of Portland. John Karisch, a hypnotist, entertained the group.

Frank Meener presided at the meeting when Michael Simonetti, co-chairman of the fund-raising project, announced that it would be completed on July 6. The club donated $250 to the Portland Lions team of the Little League and $200 to the Portland team of the Babe Ruth League.

Scouts learn travel tips in sessions

STROUDSBURG — Five girls from this area were among the 80 Cadette and Senior Girl Scouts and friends who attended "The Travel Bag." This program was the last program in this year's series of "How To's" sponsored by the Scranton Pocono Girl Scout Council.

During the morning session the participants learned "Trip Tips" from a panel composed of Miss Jeanne Brown of Thompson Travel Bureau; Mrs. John Dykes and Miss Lori Masters. Mrs. Evan Klotach acted as moderator of the panel.

This was followed by a bus trip to the Wilkes-Barre-Scranton Airport where the girls looked at the airport's facilities and heard a talk on flight "know how."

A travel fashion show was presented by The Globe Store during the afternoon session. The program was completed by tours of a travel camper furnished by M. Cobb Trailers.

Attending the program from this area were: Vivian Crossman and Karen Crossman of East Stroudsburg and Betsy Albert, Kathy Albert, and Deborah Heeter of Stroudsburg.

Junior Music Club ends year

EAST STROUDSBURG — The Pocono Junior Music Study Club will hold its final meeting of the club year on Sunday, April 9 at 2 p.m. Mrs. Jack Manchester, president of the Music Study Club of the Stroudsburgs, will install the new officers.

Karen Reich will be narrator for the program which will feature the music of Schumann.

Funds, volunteers spell goal for Cancer Control Month

Volunteers prepare and fold surgical dressings in basement of First Presbyterian Church, Stroudsburg, for cancer clinic program.

STROUDSBURG — April is Cancer Control Month. What does that mean for Monroe County residents? Two things:

— An opportunity to contribute to the continuing battle to conquer cancer in your lifetime, and — A goal by the local Cancer Crusade organization of $18,000 to fund the drive toward that goal.

Funds from the annual Cancer Crusade support, among other things, several local programs for the cancer patient. Free "pap" tests are just one of the services offered by the local cancer unit. Others range from the seemingly simple offer of free transportation to the cancer clinic at the General Hospital of Monroe County to free surgical dressings to any cancer patient.

Two especially valuable programs are the "Reach to Recovery" program and the free-loan program for seeing that the cancer patient has such equipment as he needs in his fight for survival, including electrically operated hospital beds to many other items of sickroom equipment.

The "Reach to Recovery" program assists cancer patients to adapt to a new way of life following treatment — medical or surgical — for the dread disease. An important part of that program is physical therapy, but psychological therapy also plays an important part. It is one thing to learn to continue living as close to a normal life as possible after major surgery, but it is quite another to attain a state of mind that will make such a life possible.

This, and much more, can be done with the funds the Cancer Crusade will be raising during the rest of this month. But you can give more to the fight against cancer than money. An important role in the many cancer programs in the county is played by volunteer workers.

An example is the group of ladies who spend their contributed time folding and preparing those free surgical dressings in the basement of the First Presbyterian Church of Stroudsburg. Another example is the free transportation offered by volunteers to allow otherwise homebound cancer patients to get to the clinics and recovery programs at the hospital.

That is what must continue, even in the face of the President's national commitment to finding a cure for cancer. For, while some $1.6 billion is expected to be appropriated for that all-out battle, volunteer services are still needed on the local level. It is one thing to cure cancer, but quite another to help those who are long-term victims of the disease to do more than just survive, but lead happy, fulfilled lives as well.

Particularly in the area of rehabilitation, there will continue to be an increasing need for both funds and volunteers. As many as two million volunteers are expected to be needed over the next few years, volunteer time and talent that would cost the government millions of dollars each year if no one came forward to help.

That is what the Cancer Crusade volunteer will be asking when he or she comes to your door this month. For defeating cancer is a team effort — the federal government, the American Cancer Society and you.

Opening lead—king of hearts.

What is that magic something that makes one person a very good player and another only an average player? Probably the expert's greatest single asset is that he displays very good judgment in practically every situation, while the average player often falls down on matters that are well within his ability but that he fails on nonetheless.

Take this deal where West leads the king of hearts, which South wins with the ace. What should declarer do now? It would seem normal to draw trumps, lead the nine of clubs, and finesse. If West had the king, South would make the slam; if East had the king, he would go down one because East would return a spade after West had signaled in spades as the trumps were being extracted.

But the expert might make the contract, assuming he exercised his usual care. He would not draw trumps at once, but would stake his chances on a club finesse at trick two.

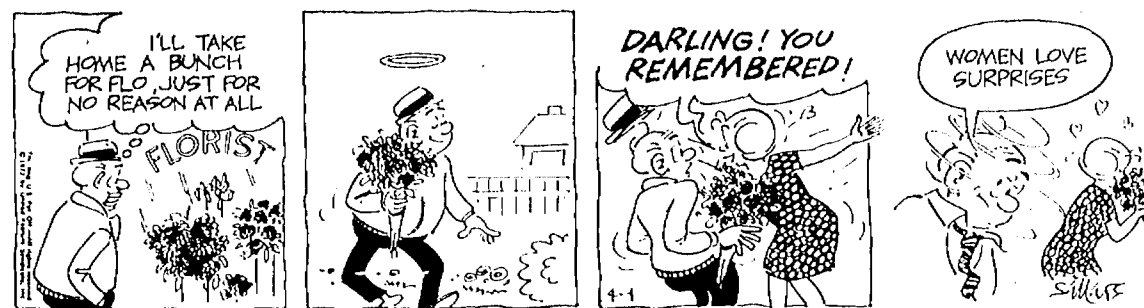

He would hope West had the king of clubs, but all the same he would allow for the possibility that East had it. If the finesse succeeded, he would then draw trumps and thus make the slam.

But if the finesse lost, he would still have a fair shot at the slam because East — not seeing everyone's cards — might return a heart instead of a spade, thus handing South the contract. Remember that East, under these conditions, would not have had a spade signal from West and might go wrong.

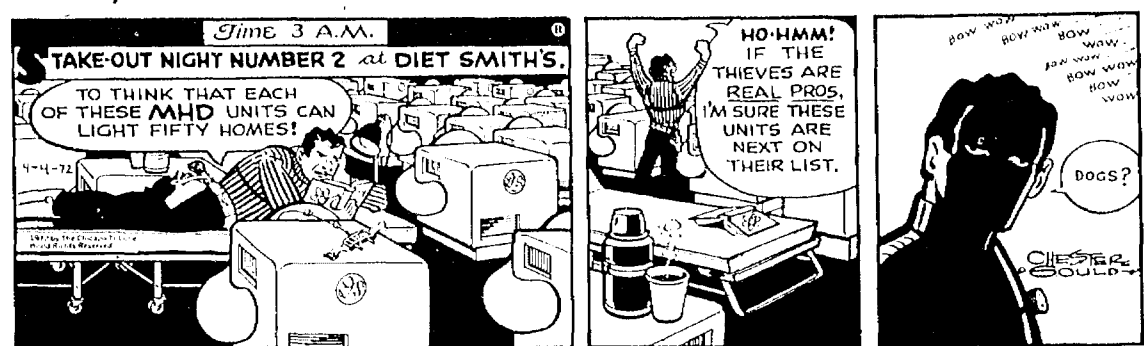

Delaying the extraction of trumps has much in its favor and might well account for all the difference between making the slam and going down one. It would also demonstrate the use of very good judgment.

Voice of Broadway

NEW YORK — "The Selling of the President" in book form by Joe McGlinchis was an aggravated assault on Nixon's Madison Ave. campaign. It had a definite point of aggressive view: the musical version that flopped headlong into the Shubert (we'll be amazed if it's still there by the time this gets into print — the closing notice was up before the opening) was homogenized fence-sitting pap, no suspicion that it ever contained specific topical reference to anyone; it makes the early political musicals (Of Thee I Sing, I'd Rather Be Right, Porgy and Bess etc.) seem wildly courageous impudence; this lacks satire, burlesque, intelligence or wit. It simply jacks up the book's title and suffocates it with an irrelevant libretto, banal lyrics and music ostensibly cock-folk oriented. It opened on a low point and ran straight down. Pat Hingle played the 1976 President-elect; egad, how he tried! And lost.

Johnny Olson, the TV announcer whose specialty is warning up studio audiences of many network shows, played that role in the disaster and proved one unlikely point: that any audience can be warmed up to applaud en masse on cue; he accomplished it at the beginning of the show, but the audience thereafter seemed numb to a point of apathy; once fooled.

The Dan Daileys have a flash. "Twigs" got neat reviews, but the twigs' crackling. Ditto "Night Watch." Pat O'Brien dearly wants a good Broadway role. Japanese restaurant genius Rocky Aoki's 17th Benihana spot takes over the restaurant ("Pip's") Merv Griffin and some celebrity backers (Ethel Merman, Jacqueline Susann, David Susskind etc.) ran into the drowning red ink on 48th St. near Broadway. Molly Berns of the "21" clan has had her share of agonies: her husband, Charley Berns, died last year; daughter Susan's producer husband Van Wolf just had his final curtain.

The Feds know all about a Vietnam veterans' militant gang planning a "bloodbath" during the Repubs' San Diego convention. Diabham Carroll had two night's shot at Dick Cavett's show — the first night didn't wish to brook any pro-U.S. comment (by NBC's Barbara Walters) about Nixon's China jaunt; next night packed her panel with one-note stuck whistles, none of whom tilted toward the center. David Cassidy's claiming in interviews all over that "I did it myself," while disavowing any help from his actor-pop Jack Cassidy: "He wasn't around much," the lad deflates.

Just a few steps from staid Carnegie Hall on 57th St., a pitchman handed us a blue paper with a come-on for a massage joint (Pandora's Box) with a nude sketch and the lure: "Pandora's Box loves you — come and say hello or stay with us awhile for the most relaxed super massage in town" etc. Mike Nichols' "The Graduate" gotten gains (couple of million) financed his new stable of 35 Arabian horses. If you'd like to ride around and pick up some trash, an International Harvester dump truck is offered at a mere $115,000.

Beatrice Lillie never snobbishly haunted her proper "Lady Peel" title except in pomposity-deflating circumstances. Such as when she starred in "Set to Music" at the Shubert in Chicago. She was being coiffed at the local Lizzie Arden salon in the windy city and some of her show's chorus kids were there ahead of Bea. From the next booth came a stuffy soprano smugging: "Oh, if I'd known there would be chorus girls here today I wouldn't have come." Bea learned the identity of the snob (she was a meat-packer's wife) as she said ta-ta to the manageress, poised strategically near the old smug's cubicle, sang out: "You may tell the butcher's wife that Lady Peel has finished!"

That's in Bea's "Every Other Inch a Lady" autobiography. This one isn't: when Eleanor Holm and Billy Rose divorced, Bea asked Eleanor if she still had a fairly valuable painting Bea had given her. Eleanor said no, Billy insisted it was his; it wasn't, Bea told Ellie, adding, "You'll get it back." Bea had delivered by hand to Rose at his Ziegfeld Theater apartment a note which fairly sizzled in formal style demanding the painting be returned to rightful owner Eleanor — and signed if even more formally, "Lady Peel."

Ann Landers

About face on lifts

Dear Ann Landers: What shall I say to a close relative who keeps asking me if she should have her face lifted?

Teresa is in her late 40's and I think she looks fine. She has a great figure, excellent taste in clothes, and although her face does have some wrinkles, she's pretty and I can't understand why she would consider facial surgery. To compound the mystery, she's not a career person competing in the business world with younger women. Teresa has a wonderful husband, a beautiful home and a nice family.

The face-lifting thing has become an obsession with her. It's all she talks about. She feels it would enhance her looks and give her a tremendous psychological boost. Every time she asks me what I think I tell her she's crazy to consider it. I've seen some women who looked better before they had the operation. How can I talk her out of it?

Out of Words

Dear Out: You can't, so don't try. Moreover, she's not looking for advice, she's merely trying to get your approval.

A woman who is obsessed with the idea of getting her face lifted will probably do it eventually. Her problem sounds more emotional than cosmetic.

Dear Ann Landers: A few days ago someone told me that the sister of a good friend of mine had died. I immediately sat down and wrote a sympathy note.

This morning I learned that I had been misinformed. My friend's sister is very much alive and no one seems to know where the rumor started. I feel like a fool. Please tell me what to do. Should I apologize, keep quiet, or what?

Too Sympathetic

Dear Too: Drop your friend another note and tell her you were misinformed. If she has a sense of humor you might paraphrase Mark Twain's famous remark—"The news of your sister's death was greatly exaggerated..."

Dear Ann Landers: I'm consumed with curiosity about that guy who kept his eyes open when he kissed. It was a girl who wrote and she couldn't figure out what he was looking at. It bothered her. You were unable to provide an adequate answer.

What I'd like to know is this: How come she caught him? What was she looking at? And what was his reaction when his eyes met hers? After I read that column I decided to do an experiment. I opened my eyes in the middle of a kiss and it killed everything. I don't recommend it.

Osculator in Opelousas, La.

Dear Op: The things people reveal through this column is a constant source of amazement — even to me! Thanks for writing.

Q—I am a property owner in East Stroudsburg and I am confused about the borough's snow removal ordinance. I have a sidewalk which runs only halfway in front of my property, while the rest of the walkway is a path worn in the dirt. Am I responsible for shoveling the path even though a sidewalk does not exist?

A.M., East Stroudsburg

A—According to the borough ordinance governing snow removal operations, you are responsible for shoveling a passageway on the dirt pathway. The ordinance states any walkway must be cleared within eight daylight hours after the snowfall has ceased. Failure to comply can result in a fine of $25 plus costs.

Q—I have been a property owner on North Fifth Street in Stroud Township for 35 years. In that time the condition of the road has increased greatly because of continuous resurfacing. However, no money has been provided by the state, and the road has become small runoffs.

Shoppers continue to vote against Tocks

STROUSBURG — Votes in the Wyckoff Department Store straw poll look like a carbon copy of previous weeks with a two to one six on the Tocks Island Dam and a similar ratio in favor of the recreation project.

Supposedly an advance sampling of the official response to be made on the April 25 primary ballot, the straw return this week put 237 in favor of the dam and 592 against.

Conversion of the land acquired by the federal government into a recreation area is favored by 568 with a 229 showing against the suggestion.

While Wisconsin voters are expected to select Hubert Humphrey for the Democratic presidential nomination today, Monroe County voters polled Humphrey as their fourth choice.

Muskie and Kennedy tied for the lead with 104 followers each and McGovern plucked a third choice with 58 votes. Humphrey lagged fourth with 53. If fifth place is considered a slot in the race, Wallace took it with 39.

President Nixon is a sure thing for the Republican nomination and 387 shoppers are taking no chances with their vote.

Behind Nixon on the Republican side is Paul McCloskey garnishing 13 faithful who either haven't heard he is out of the running or don't care to believe it.

John Ashbrook, a conservative's choice, took eight votes.

Joseph C. Wagner

EAST STROUSBURG — Joseph C. Wagner, 74, of Henryville R.D. 1, died Monday in the General Hospital of Monroe County. He is survived by his wife, Ruth (Swank) Wagner, at home.

Born in McKeesport, he was the son of the late Charles and Rosa Wagner.

He was a member of the Eagles Lodge 1106 of Stroudsburg. He had been a resident of the Henryville area for the past 15 years.

In addition to his wife he is survived by a son, Edwin C. Wagner, of Henryville R.D. 1; two daughters, Mrs. Alberta Wozney, of Wayne, N.J., and Mrs. Ruth Thomas, of Haledon, N.J.; eight grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 1:30 p.m. Thursday in the Lanterman Funeral Home, 27 Washington St., East Stroudsburg, with Rev. David E. Humphrey officiating.

Viewing will be from 7 to 9 p.m. Wednesday at the funeral home.

Burial will be in Pocono Union Cemetery, Meisertown.

Katherine L. Schelber

GREENTOWN — Mrs. Katherine L. Schelber, 92, of Greentown, died Sunday at the Wayne County Memorial Hospital, Honesdale.

Born in New York City, the daughter of the late Emil and Mary (Oppelt) Walter, she had resided in Greentown for many years. Her husband, Edward, died in July 1963.

Mrs. Schelber was a member of the Moravian Church of Newfoundland.

She is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Louise Sowden, of La Anna; one granddaughter; three great-grandchildren and one great-great-grandson.

Funeral services will be held at 11 a.m. Wednesday at the Arthur J. Frey Funeral Home, Route 191, La Anna. Rev. Gerald C. Felt, pastor of the Moravian Church, Newfoundland, and Rev. Frederick Fulmer, retired Moravian pastor, will officiate.

Burial will be in Moravian Cemetery, Newfoundland. There will be no viewing.

Nina Burnley

PHILADELPHIA — Nina (Griffith) Burnley, 88, grandmother of the late Ralph G. Burnley, Jr., after whom the Burnley Workshop of the Poconos was named, died in Philadelphia Saturday after a lengthy illness.

She was the widow of George M. Burnley and had been residing in the Widows and Single Women's Home in Philadelphia until the time of her death.

She was a 1900 graduate of Upper Darby High School and a graduate of West Chester State College. She taught school in Clifton Heights until her marriage and was known for her painting and poetry.

She was a frequent visitor to the Poconos and said her work was inspired by the area's natural beauty.

She is survived by two sons, George Burnley and Ralph G. Burnley, Sr., both of East Stroudsburg; a daughter, N. Dorothy Burnley, of Upper Darby; 13 grandchildren and 14 great-grandchildren.

Private funeral services will be held today from the Oliver H. Bair Funeral Home, Philadelphia, with burial in the Arlington Cemetery, Drexel Hill. Dr. Armin Roberts will officiate.

State colleges popular choice

Record Harrisburg Bureau

HARRISBURG — Enrollment in Pennsylvania's 14 state colleges proved to be the most popular choice of last year's graduates of Monroe County high schools who elected to attend a Pennsylvania college or university, a report by the State Department of Education indicated Monday.

Of the 586 graduates of the county's secondary schools last June, 117 were enrolled in one of the state colleges, 29 decided to attend a community college, 23 enrolled in private junior colleges, 27 enrolled in other types of colleges or universities within the state; while 33 elected to attend a college or university outside the state.

What happened to the remainder of the county's high school graduates?

The department report shows for example that 18 decided to enter a business technical school; nine entered a vocational-technical school; 11 enrolled in nursing schools; 11 went to business schools; and 11 entered other types of schools.

One took postgraduate work; 29 entered the armed forces; 39 went into the sales field; 63 entered office employment; 25 factory employment; 24 went into one of the trades; 10 entered apprentice training; while 58 entered "other," or miscellaneous, fields of employment. The remainder — 48 — fell into various other categories.

In the case of Pike County, the most popular choice of last year's graduates was enrollment in Pennsylvania's 14 state colleges.

Of the 92 graduates of the county's secondary schools, 13 were enrolled in the state colleges; two in community colleges; five in a private junior college; seven in other types of colleges or universities within the state; while 11 elected to attend a college or university outside the state.

Two decided to enter nursing schools, one business school, and five other types of schools.

Five entered the armed forces; one apprentice training, and eight other or miscellaneous fields of employment. The remainder — 32 — fell into various other categories.

Labor Relations Board to rule on proposed PVM union

BY GARY GROSSMAN
Pocono Record Reporter
STROUDSBURG — A unit of 50 county home workers seeking union representation was proposed to a state Labor Relations Board examiner Monday. The LRB is expected to pass on the unit's eligibility within a month.

If eligible, the unit will vote whether to be represented by the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, AFL-CIO. Such a vote would be the first taken by Monroe County employees.

Originally numbering 68, the unit was whittled down to eliminate supervisory personnel prohibited from a union vote under Pennsylvania's Public Employees Act.

Acting for the employers, the Monroe County Commissioners, attorney John Hayes told the labor board examiner the county wants the unit restricted to the county home.

The stipulation by Hayes may be a tactical move against the union's announced intention to attempt representation of all county employees.

Following the union's presentation of proposed voters, the county's negotiators rattled off a list of management and supervisory personnel at Pleasant Valley Manor who will not be included in the union vote.

Sole witness at the hearing was Ernest Rewolinski, area coordinator for AFSCME. He identified a pack of designee cards signed by employees at the county home signifying their wish to be represented by his union.

Manor violations may be corrected

STROUDSBURG — The Monroe County Commissioners Monday began their battle to keep the county home from being closed by the Department of Labor and Industry.

Most of the corrections to be made at the county home will require connecting sections of the facility to the emergency electric circuit.

In the wake of a recent inspection of Pleasant Valley Manor by Labor and Industry officials, the commissioners initiated a study of the estimated expense to remedy five violations of the state's Fire and Panic Act.

The commissioners also continued preparations for the spraying of gypsy moths, asking for letters from county property holders who do not want their land chemically sprayed to rid the forest pest.

Nine violations were cited in the report on the inspection, but the commissioners selected the five because of a May 7, 1972 deadline placed on them.

Most letters to the county officials have been requesting spray, but the Department of Environmental Resources wants to hear from those not interested this month.

The four violations with lower priority are deadlined for 1974.

In other business, the commissioners appointed Dr. Alberta Finch to the Children's Bureau Advisory Board, tabled a request for May voter registration at East Stroudsburg State College and received a $13,000 to $15,000 estimate on a county water survey.

"I feel if we do not do this the Manor would have to be closed," said Mrs. Nancy B. Shukaitis, chairman.

Errors admitted in airport plans

By SKIP TAGGART

more specific information concerning the master plan — something the consultants failed to do — and explained this lack of communication as the reason the financial breakdown was in error.

AVOCA — A spokesman for the Environmental Development Council of Northeastern Pennsylvania Monday described their report on the master plan for the proposed expansion of the Pocono Mountains Municipal Airport as "a pretty big boo-boo."

The monetary share of the investigation into the practicability of the proposed airport expansion was reported to cost the Airport Authority $1,233 with no state funding aid available. Authority Chairman Arthur McCambridge said the state would provide aid in the project, thus reducing the local cost to a figure close to $1,400.

Actually, there were only two "boo-boos" made in the report — the cost sharing breakdown of the $12,700 cost of investigating the master plan and the now defunct operation of ferrying small planes overseas to European buyers that was thought to still be in operation at the Mount Pocono air field.

The initial notification of the planned investigation was circulated in the form of a fact sheet to the Monroe County Commissioners, the Monroe County Planning Commission and the Tucks Island Regional Advisory Council last week. The planning commission refused to comment on the plan. TRAC wants time to study the entire master plan as do the county commissioners.

Admittedly, the spokesman said, the ferry operation the EDCNP thought still in operation was entered in the report to provide more "justification" for the funds required to investigate the possibility of expanding the airport's facilities. He reaffirmed the council's good intentions in the report by saying he had no idea the overseas flights had stopped more than three years ago.

The EDCNP spokesman said the county commissioners' endorsement would in no way obligate them to provide financial assistance and the cost for the program has already been divided between the federal and state government and the airport authority.

He also said the EDCNP had requested the Pocono Mountains Municipal Airport Authority's planning consultants send the council

Law report not sent to Pike

MILFORD — The Commissioners of Pike County said Monday they had not received a copy of the report of the Northeast Regional Council of the Governor's Crime Commission which was critical of the police protection in the county.

He described the function of the development council in a role such as this as one of a "coordination" nature. The EDCNP notifies the different agencies in the region that a particular study or program is about to get underway so they may be aware of them and also to avoid a "possible duplication of efforts."

During their meeting, the commission chairman George Cotts and members, Warner M. Depuy and James Duffy, Jr., contacted the Monroe County Courthouse, the Tucks Island Regional Advisory Council office and the director of the Northeast Regional Council, Harry Russ, at Kingston for copies of the report.

As explained, the council is open to positive or negative reactions from the different agencies it serves to notify. If the plan is met with favorable or no comment it is passed on to the federal and state agencies who will supply the funds for the project with the EDCNP's "seal of approval."

The commissioners said they could not comment on the report at this time since they had not had an opportunity to read it.

House inspection meeting today

The Pike County officials stated they were "very concerned" over any matter of police protection in the county.

The residents concerned with today's meeting will be from the "core" area of the borough, bounded by Interstate Rte. 80 and Sarah Street, and Pocono Creek to Fifth Street.

Commissioner Duffy declared "I am appalled that we never received a copy of this report."

Opposition remains to Paradise landfill

By DAVID J. NICHOLAS
Pocono Record Reporter

SWIFTWATER — Interest in solid waste disposal and the location of a proposed landfill site in Paradise Township has not waned and residents continue to pack the supervisors' meetings as they did Monday night.

A committee of six persons, headed by Clarence W. Henderson, produced a lengthy report of facts "in support of immediate action to forestall the use of additional land in Monroe County as a garbage dump."

Although the third alternative was described as the "least attractive" of the three, the report went on to say "the sterile expanses of countryside might easily be transformed into dense forests for the profit and enjoyment of future generations."

The report closed with "even a superficial evaluation of the alternatives has convinced the committee that the proposal to locate another garbage dump in this county is premature."

Attached to the report was a petition which the supervisors were asked to approve and did. Capitalizing on the protection of the ecology and the economy, the petition read the signers oppose the use of land-fill anywhere in the county.

The supervisors approved a motion to send a copy of the report to the Monroe County Commissioners and also moved to attach a letter requesting the disposition of the Devil's Hole tract in reference to its priority for landfill.

DWG solicitor to attend region sewer plan confab

DELAWARE WATER GAP — Delaware Water Gap Borough Council gave its solicitor John Hiseott approval to attend a dinner meeting next Tuesday night at the Penn Stroud Motor Inn during which the Delaware River Basin Commission's regional sewerage proposal will be discussed.

The meeting will bring together the county solicitor and 11 other municipal solicitors from around the Monroe County to discuss the various aspects of the proposed $362 million regional sewerage trunk line as envisioned by DRBC.

The constitutionality of the proposal will be one of the prime topics of discussion. The area solicitors hope to map out a plan to have one attorney represent the region if and when the subject of constitutionality is raised.

Hiseott told council members the meeting was designed to determine whether the boroughs and townships should contribute funds to pay for the legal talent. He said no municipality by itself could afford the legal fees if it "planned to go it alone."

In addition, he said, it would be beneficial to have one common spokesman in dealing with the basin commission.

In other business, Council indicated it would approve joining the Portland Ambulance Corps, Inc. The borough previously was covered in the by-laws of the Portland-based operations when it was organized in 1954.

Capt. Ronny Newbaker and president Bob Shields informed council that there is no charge in joining as it is a non-profit organization.

The officials stated that "the corps is willing to serve" the area if the borough was interested. Operation funds are obtained through various charitable programs conducted by individuals or service clubs. Solicitations through the boroughs are also sometimes used.

Clean Up Days in the borough were set for the last Saturday in April (April 29) and the first Saturday in May supervisors continue to rely on the county to administrate and police planning in their township?

On the one hand, the Polk Supervisors would like to exercise local control on incoming developers. However, they are reluctant to appoint a planning commission without knowing how much expense would be involved in drawing up a township subdivision ordinance and policing the new code.

In a one and a half hour presentation Monday night, Douglas Williams, executive director of the Monroe County Planning and Zoning Commission, explained the county subdivision ordinance to the supervisors and said the county would like to have the townships administer their own planning.

He emphasized, however, that local planning regulations would have to be policed and said the local commission would have to conduct its own on-site inspections of future developments.

He said that establishing a planning commission would involve a substantial expense, and told the township it did not have the money to establish a commission, it should not feel obligated to do so.

The supervisors unanimously agreed to table the matter until their May board meeting. During the next month, the supervisors will examine the county code and will consult with other townships to determine the cost of instituting local planning controls.

Meeting changed

SWIFTWATER — The meetings of the Paradise Township Supervisors will be held on the first Tuesday of the month beginning in May and will continue to be held on that day in the future.

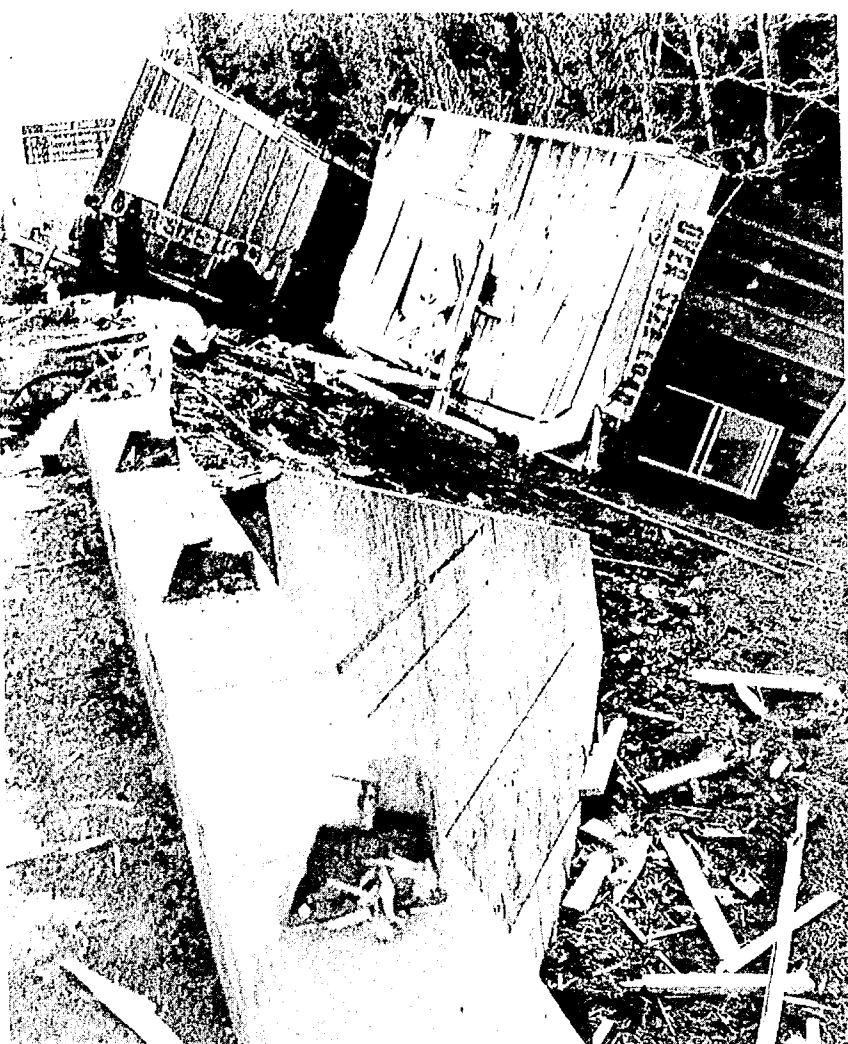

Under the terms of the program, the Redevelopment Authority removed standard structures and acquired land along Lincoln Avenue. The property acquired was converted to commercial uses including the Pocono Plaza slated to open this spring.

Total cost of the project was $1,399,747.

The most recently allocated funds come in the form of a grant from HUD. They are earmarked for any specific purpose according to Kenneth Alsapich, executive director of the redevelopment authority.

Alsapich said the money will be used to pay off a temporary loan used for all aspects of the project which was officially closed two weeks ago.

He said the only unfinished portion of the Lincoln Avenue project is a sidewalk scheduled to be constructed on the west side of Lincoln Avenue.

Modular mess

Two Pennsylvania truck drivers and a passenger escaped serious injury Monday when the trailer sections of their vehicles inter-locked while one tried to pass the other and caused both of them to crash over a bridge abutment and through the guardrail about two miles west of Tannersville on I-80 East. All three were treated and released at the General Hospital of Monroe County. Damage estimate — $14,000 to the vehicles and their cargoes. (Staff photo by Rod MacLeod)

FHA to reconsider sewage grant bid for Mt. Pocono

MOUNT POCONO — The Farmers Home Administration (FHA) intends to reconsider Mount Pocono's application for a federal grant to construct a sewerage treatment system for the borough, according to Mayor Gerald Possinger.

Possinger told council members Monday night FHA representatives from Allentown and Harrisburg plan to review the application again and visit the borough in May to personally "look over the site."

The FHA had initially rejected the borough's application for federal assistance in February on the grounds Mount Pocono has too many summer and vacation-oriented residents to qualify for the grants that are going to year-round communities.

Possinger said he has agreed to provide figures on the number of summer homes within the borough to the FHA representatives at the May meeting.

He noted engineers have estimated the sewerage system will cost $2.3 million and said 50 per cent of that would be required in the form of grants. Possinger indicated applications for funding have been filed with "various agencies in addition to FHA."

Borough solicitor Peter J. O'Brien told council he was "pleased with the answers" he received during a recent meeting with Delaware River Basin Commission (DRBC) representatives on their intention to foster a $362 million tri-state sewerage treatment system.

It was noted that, assuming Mount Pocono's sewerage plan meets the DRBC's specifications, it could function until the borough's growing population phases it out, at which point the DRBC would then assume the burden of the borough's remaining debt.

In other business, the council discussed sidewalks and streets in need of repair and moved to have surveys on them completed by next month's meeting.

Two escape serious injury in early morning accident

SNYDERSVILLE — Two Bangor youths escaped serious injury early Monday morning when they lost control of their car on a rural section of Business Route 209 in Hamilton Township known as "Dead man's Curve" and overturned after striking an embankment.

Paul Filbach and James Walicki, both of Bangor, received minor cuts and told police they would consult their own physicians.

Filbach, the driver of the vehicle, told Pennsylvania State Police investigators from the Stroudsburg barracks he lost control of the car while traveling south on Rt. 209 at the crest of the hill in the middle of the curve. The auto ran into the dirt embankment on the east berm of the road and rolled onto its roof.

A passing motorist came upon the overturned car a short while later and could not find the occupants. He then drove to a nearby diner and asked that police and an ambulance be summoned.

Just before state police arrived at the scene the driver and his passenger came out of a nearby wooded area where they had apparently wandered in a state of shock. Both appeared relatively unharmed from the mishap excepting some cuts on their hands.

The 1961 Volkswagen was estimated a total loss and the state police are continuing their investigation.

Special meeting set

SWIFTWATER — A special meeting of the Paradise Township Supervisors will be held at 7:30 p.m., Monday, April 24 in the township community center to discuss road project priorities for the year.

Offer to end strike rejected by owners

NEW YORK (UPI)—Club owners rejected the offer which would have ended the baseball strike Monday, calling the proposal advanced by Marvin Miller, executive director of the Major League Players Association, "an imprudent approach to the problem."

John Gaherin, chief negotiator for the owners, said he had presented Miller's proposal to the owners early Monday night but that they had unanimously agreed not to accept it.

Miller's proposal, which was made at an afternoon meeting with Gaherin, was to accept the offer of $5,490,000 offered by the owners in Phoenix "provided the Players Association can use the six per cent potential the money earns" to increase the benefits of the pension plan. Miller had said that "if management rejects this offer, it must bear responsibility for the delay of the opening of the season."

It now appears unlikely that the season, which is scheduled to open Wednesday, will get underway on time.

The owners and player representatives from the 24 major league clubs will meet tonight in Chicago to try and reach an agreement on the issues.

The players had been demanding that the club owners increase by $650,000 the clubs' annual contribution to the players' pension fund. The owners had been offering a $490,000 increase.

Miller said the players were willing to take the smaller amount provided they can have the say about the pension fund earnings.

The final four days of exhibition games in baseball spring training have been wiped out by the dispute. The regular season is scheduled to open on Wednesday with a single game — Houston at Cincinnati — and then other teams are supposed to swing into action on Thursday.

However, the striking players left their training bases in Florida and Arizona and have scattered, most of them to their homes. With Wednesday drawing near, it became problematic whether they could be assembled in time for the scheduled opening games even in the event of a quick settlement.

Gaherin said he is in contact with the owners to find out their reaction to Miller's offer. He said he had no plans to meet again with Miller until he has learned from the owners what they wish to do next.

Miller, in a late-afternoon news conference, said the owners claim to doubt that they can rely on the fund continuing to earn six per cent interest annually. He said the Players Association had offered "to put its money where its mouth is" by guaranteeing the six per cent.

"We will put up the difference," he said, "if it does not earn six per cent. But money is not the issue. The real issue is the owners' attempt to punish the players for having the audacity not to settle and for having the audacity not to crawl," he said.

Miller claimed that the strike came after "three months of fruitless negotiations" in which "all avenues to a honorable settlement have been closed by the owners."

Told that some of the owners had claimed he is the cause of the strike, Miller shrugged and said, "I have a thick skin."

The discussion about the future earning potential of the pension fund was a switch from previous discussions about a sum of $817,000, which the players had claimed is now available through a surplus created by the six per cent actual interest, overfunding, and overestimating payments for disabled players. The players contend the owners should free the $817,000 for addition to the fund. Certain owners have argued that freeing this sum would be impractical and undermine the plan.

It's life as usual for minor leaguers

SARASOTA, Fla. (UPI)—Professional baseball is still being played in the United States despite the strike of the Major League Players Association.

On the minor league level, a total of more than 2,400 players — an average of more than 100 a club, are still working out in their various minor league camps.

The Kansas City Royals' minor league base at Sarasota was a typical example Monday as a total of 113 players participated in four different games.

John Schuerholz, the assistant farm director of the Royals, said, "we followed the same format as usual and we had four games."

Schuerholz said the Royals plan to keep their minor league base open for the duration of the strike but he said some clubs are thinking of closing them.

"None of the minor league teams is self-supporting and I've heard executives from some clubs say that if the strike is prolonged, they would consider terminating some of the activity of their minor league teams," Schuerholz said. "But we'll keep on running."

The minor league players aren't on strike because they aren't members of the Major League Players Association.

While the Royals had 113 players in camp, the Los Angeles Dodgers have a total of 125 minor leaguers in contract and they played in five games on Monday.

Bill Schweppe, the farm director of the Dodgers, said the minor leaguers played their normal camp games.

Besides Florida action, there was minor league activity in such scattered places as Charlotte, N.C., Holtville, Calif., and Spokane, Wash.

The Southern League regular season schedule is set to begin on April 11 while the International League, American Association and California League all begin on April 14.

Stroudsburg player named to Lehigh Valley all-stars

STROUDSBURG — Steve Smith, who led Stroudsburg High School to its best basketball finish in five years, has been selected to the first team of the Lehigh Valley League all-star squad.

The team, selected by league coaches, was announced Monday. It was the first time the league officially picked an all-star team. Five points were awarded for a first team vote and one for second. Coaches could not vote for players on their own team.

Smith, who was also named to the first team of the Eastern Scholastic Soccer League all-stars as a goalie, received the third highest number of points. He polled 27 behind Greg Vogel of Northampton and Brian Metzgar of Lehigh.

Smith, who averaged 20.4 points per game — fourth best in the area — led the Mounties to an 11-11 record including 6-8 in the league. He was also one of Mounties' top rebounders.

Smith, who scored 20 or more points in 13 games, was also a member of the first All-

Pocono team selected by area coaches for The Pocono Record.

All-America football player Art Owens was given honorable mention on the basketball team.

Beside Smith, Vogel and Metzgar, Jim Schneider of Northampton and Dave Long of Lehigh were named to the first team. The second team included Randy Stubits of Palmerton, Dave Winch and Joe Poluka of Catasauqua, Mike Schneider of Northampton and Kevin Seltzer of Lehigh.

Given honorable mention along with Owens were George Donchez, Rich Costenbader, Jim Hay and Gene Roberts of Palmerton, Carl Korskak, Dave Morton, John Kulhammer and Frank Szlezzy of Whitehall, Lee Frieling and Lee Reinsmith of Emmaus and Terry Sinitore and Jim Spitzer of Northampton.

'Rejected' ESSC cuts loose for 26-0 baseball victory

WASHINGTON, D.C. — East Stroudsburg State College had to put up with a snub from the White House, a nearby Easter egg roll which attracted nearly 10,000 youngsters and a walkout by umpires Monday, but it opened its Southern baseball tour in grand style.

The Warriors sent 24 men to the plate in the first inning, scored 21 runs and coasted to a 26-0 rout of Federal City College.

President Richard M. Nixon, faced with no major league baseball team in the city to mark opening day, declined an invitation to throw out the first ball. Instead, Nixon and his wife stayed in the White House, just a stone's throw from the East Elipse Field, and watched egg roll.

ESSC's victory, its second in three games, was scheduled for nine innings. But the umpires worked under the impression of two seven inning games and refused to work after the seventh inning.

The egg roll delayed the start of the game one-half hour. And by the time the Warriors had a 21-0 lead after the first inning, another 45 minutes had passed.

The Warriors, who collected eight hits and had 10 walks in the first inning, picked up three bases on balls and a sacrifice before Dave Wildon collected the first hit of the game. ESSC built an 8-0 lead after four more walks and singles by Dennis Acker and Lee Hunter before starter Dave Machael was lifted.

Reliever Mash Newton was then greeted by a base-clearing double by Mark Holmer. Al Frick added a two-run double in the ninth. Wilson ended the game with three hits and three runs batted in. Tom Belies, who had reached base seven straight times in two games before making out in the third inning, Scott Myers, Hunter and Frick all drove in two runs.

After a day off today, the Warriors play a doubleheader Wednesday at High Point (N.C.) College.

Your tax problems

"Your Tax Problems" is published as a public service and is prepared by the Philadelphia District Office of the Internal Revenue Service. Send queries to the District Director, Internal Revenue Service, 401 N. Broad Street, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, 19108. For personal replies give name and address.

Q. If I let the IRS compute my tax, will it delay any refund I may have coming?

A. No. The IRS can compute the tax and issue a refund within 46 weeks from the date the return is filed with the service center. So, actually, your refund will not be delayed by having IRS compute the tax since the computations are checked on all returns received.

Q. Some friends and I are planning to form an investment club. Does the IRS have a publication on the tax duties and responsibilities of such a club and its members?

A. Yes. Call your local IRS office or write to your IRS district office and ask for a copy of Publication 550, "Tax Information on Investment Income and Expenses." It's available free.

Q. Where can I get information on the tax obligations of operating a business?

A. Contact your IRS district office for a copy of "Tax Guide for Small Business." This 160-page booklet, which costs only 75 cents will aid you in finding the answers to tax questions that arise in starting, operating and disposing of a business. This publication is also available at many Post Offices.

Q. Do you have to use sales tax tables in your tax forms instructions to compute your sales tax deduction?

A. No. If you kept records, you can deduct the actual amounts you paid in sales tax for 1971. However, if you use the sales tax tables to determine your deduction, you may add to the amount shown sales tax paid on the purchase of automobiles, airplanes, boats, mobile homes and materials to build your own home.

Q. My employer transferred me to another state last year and as a result I plan to claim a moving expense deduction. In addition, my wife and I are thinking of filing separate returns. Are the dollar limitations on moving expenses different for spouses filing jointly and separately?

A. In addition to direct costs of moving, expenses may be deducted for the sale or purchase of a residence or the termination or acquisition of a lease, househunting trips, and temporary lodging and meals at the new location. However, the total deduction for these three categories cannot exceed $2,500 with the latter two limited to no more than $1,000 in total.

The limitation is half the above amounts, $1,250 and $500, for certain married couples filing separate returns. However, if you and your wife file separate income tax returns and one of the following circumstances exists, the $1,250 and $500 limitations do not apply:

(1) Only one spouse commences work at a new principal place of work for which a deduction is allowable, or
 (2) Both spouses commence work at new principal places of work which are at least 50 miles apart and they do not reside together at the same residence during the taxable year.

Under the second situation, a husband and wife filing a joint return may each deduct up to $2,500 for expenses in connection with the sale or purchase of a residence or the termination or acquisition of a lease and $1,000 for expenses for househunting trips and temporary lodging and meals at the new location. Married couples who meet the qualifications under the revised rules may disregard the dollar limitations for married filing separately listed on Form 3903, Moving Expense Adjustment.

Q. I should have filed an estimated income tax return last year, but I didn't. Will I have to pay an estimated tax penalty this year after my Form 1040 is processed?

A. The six per cent penalty for underpayment of 1971 estimated income tax does not apply in the case of single persons with gross incomes of not more than $10,000 or married persons filing jointly, heads of households and surviving spouses with incomes of not more than $20,000 provided the taxpayer did not have more than $200 ($400 in the case of married taxpayers filing jointly) in income other than wages. In addition, the waiver applies only for tax year 1971.

For more information on estimated tax, see Publication 505, Tax Withholding and Declaration of Estimated Tax. It's available free by dropping a postcard to your IRS district office.

Q. What are the most common mistakes that might delay a tax refund?

A. Some of the most common errors that may delay a refund include: failure to use the label that came with your tax return package; failure to attach all Forms W-2 and other required statements and schedules; incorrect or missing social security numbers; mathematical errors; using the wrong tax table, line or column; and missing signatures.

Q. If I pay someone to fill out my tax return, is he responsible for any mistakes?

A. If you are not going to prepare your own return, you are still responsible for the accuracy of every item entered on your return. Therefore, you should exercise the utmost care in choosing a preparer one who is both knowledgeable in tax matters and scrupulous in preparing a complete and accurate return.

Q. I work for a department store which gives employees courtesy discounts on items purchased from the store. Should I be taxed on the amount of these discounts I received?

A. Courtesy discounts on purchases from employers are not income if they are of relatively small value and are offered to employees generally as a means of promoting their health, goodwill or efficiency.

Your Horoscope

Frances Drake

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — A promising day! Your personality should be bright, your ideas convincing and you competent if you handle all activities with your usual good will and determination.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — Planetary aspects indicate some unexpected situations, but don't let such delays keep you from a well-charted course. Time can be made up with a bit more efficiency.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — Don't give way to lethargy or indifference when the moment calls for keen action, and willingness to ride through difficult spots with confidence. Head up!

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Precision and perception needed now. Curb a tendency to wander from prescribed course. Aim to understand both sides of controversial issues.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — A king-sized order for this day calls for concise planning, accurate movement and winding up as enthusiastically as you begin. You can do it!

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — Perk up — yourself, your interests. A little daring, rightly engineered, could flavor things smartly. Try an old tack that worked if you can't dream up something new.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — This is a day in which you MUST have a definite plan if you are not to scatter energies, winding up with nothing accomplished. System stressed!

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — Planetary influences somewhat mixed. Take day's offerings — its values and its annoyances in your usual sensible manner. A good period for concluding pending projects.

November 23 to December 21 (Sagittarius) — Others may oppose your ideas, plans. But listen! In this way you will avoid immediate friction and may actually open up a better road.

December 22 to January 20 (Capricorn) — Don't attempt too much — a tendency now. Work out a reasonable program and follow it at a sensible pace.

January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius) — More tasks than anticipated? Handle them as efficiently and wholeheartedly as though you had expected THEM especially. Take everything in stride.

February 20 to March 20 (Pisces) — An excellent day in which to establish the basis for a more secure way of life. Plan all moves wisely and with the future in mind.

YOU BORN TODAY are extremely active, both mentally and physically. You are ambitious and a hard worker but, in striving for your goals, you often go off on tangents impulsively, thus negating previous efforts. Much self-mastery is needed here — especially in controlling a too-lively imagination as well as the emotions. Tendencies toward selfishness should also be curbed before you can fully realize all of your potentials and they are many! Extremely versatile, there are many fields open to you and, properly educated, of course, you could make a highly successful artist, musician, educator, politician or sculptor. If you choose business as a career, manufacturing would be your best bet.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number is 8 or less, add 8. If the number is more than 8, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Leading firms and individuals whose services and products are guaranteed to be the finest in the area. You can depend on any of the advertisers on this page.
— Be confident — Shop from Who's Who.

Tony's Auto Repair, 10th and Main Sts., Stroudsburg, is owned and operated by Tony Santiso, and has been in business for the past seven years doing general car repairs and specializing in automatic transmissions resealed, rebuilt or repaired. Tony, married and the father of four, received his training from Lincoln-Technical Institute of Newark, N. J., and from ATS of Chicago, Ill. His service manager, Glen Edinger, married and the father of two, has been with Tony for the full seven years.

"We've repaired over 3500 transmissions since we've been in the business," says Glen. "We also have 24 hour towing service and we give a free road test," says Tony. "We're in business to serve the people and we guarantee satisfaction," they both said. So if you need any repairs done to your car regardless of make, be sure to stop in and see Tony or Glen at:

"I urge you to send $1 now to protect your family with this $600 a month tax free cash hospitalization plan"

Art Linkletter

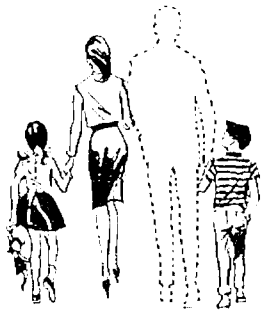

For first month's protection, mail Application Form with $1 to get up to $600 a month tax free cash when you go to the hospital You collect at the rate of...

- $600 a month cash
—that's $20.00 a day—when you require hospital care for accident or illness starting the first day in the hospital, continuing for life, if necessary.
- $300 a month cash
—that's $10.00 a day—if you're 65 or over, for the first 3 months of hospitalization. This money is paid directly to you in addition to Medicare or any other coverage you may already have. After 3 months, if you are still in the hospital, you then receive...
- $600 a month cash
—that's $20.00 a day—thereafter—in addition to Medicare benefits—even for life, if necessary.
- $360 a month cash
—that's $12.00 a day—when your child goes to the hospital for any accident or illness, when you have Coverage for Children—no matter how long the confinement may be. Coverage for both accident and illness begins the first day in the hospital.
- $600 a month cash
—that's $20.00 a day—for maternity benefits when Coverage for Children and Maternity Benefits have been added to the basic plan.
- $400 a month cash
for a registered nurse at home if your doctor has you hire one within five days following a covered hospital confinement of five days or more for as long as you were hospitalized—up to one year.

- UP TO $2,000 cash
for complete accidental loss of limbs or eyesight. If you suffer complete loss of a hand or foot or the sight of an eye within 90 days of the accident, you collect $1,000—and $2,000 for the loss of two limbs or the sight of both eyes.
- $2,400 a month cash
$1,200 a month for you—and $1,200 a month for your spouse...when an accident hospitalizes covered husband and wife at the same time. Yes, you collect $2,400 A MONTH in all (when under 65) while both are in the hospital—even for life.
- We pay all premiums
that come due for you and all covered members of your family should you—the policyowner—be hospitalized for eight consecutive weeks or more. And you don't have to pay us back.

We guarantee never to cancel your protection no matter how many claims you have...or how old you become...or for any reason whatsoever. Only you can cancel.

We guarantee never to raise your rates because of how old you become...or how many claims you have...but only if there is a general rate adjustment on all policies of this form number in your entire state.

NO AGE LIMIT • NO SALESMAN OR AGENT WILL CALL.

OVER 30 million people will be admitted to a hospital this year! It could be you—or some beloved member of your family—tomorrow...next week...next month. Sad to say, very few families have anywhere near enough coverage to meet today's soaring hospital costs. These costs have more than doubled in just a few short years. Stop for a moment. Think how much a long stay in the hospital will cost you or a loved one. How would you ever pay for costly, but necessary, X-rays, doctor bills, drugs and medicines? What would you do if your pay check stopped, but living expenses kept going on the same as ever? The same rent, phone, food, all the day-to-day expenses that never stop. What is the average breadwinner to do? We believe we have the answer in this National Home plan.

Pays you $600.00 a month tax-free cash when you are hospitalized.
Now you can have $600.00 cash coming in every month—beginning the very first day you enter the hospital due to an accident or illness. You collect $600.00 a month, even for life, if necessary.
The cash is paid directly to you in addition to whatever you may receive from your insurance with any other companies. Use the money as you see fit—for hospital or doctors' bills. To replace savings or cover household expenses. Every dollar is tax-free.
How much does $600.00 a month protection cost you? Only $1 covers you and your entire family for the first month. After that you may continue at our regular rates.

Pays you $360.00 a month cash when any unmarried dependent child is hospitalized.
When you choose Coverage for Children, this National Home plan pays you at the rate of $360.00 a month cash when one of your children is hospitalized. Pays for as long as necessary! Children are covered for accidents and illness from the first day of hospitalization.

Pays you at the rate of $600.00 a month for Maternity Benefits!
If both husband and wife are insured for the entire period of pregnancy (and have added Coverage for Children and Maternity Benefits), you get tax-free cash to use any way you want. Yes, if a pregnancy, childbirth or even miscarriage puts you in the hospital for one day, five days, ten days as long as necessary—you get cash benefits, $20.00 a day for every day of your confinement.

Pays you $400.00 a month cash for a Registered Nurse at Home.
How comforting it is to know that—after your stay in the hospital, if you've been there five days or more for which you received benefits—you can return home to recuperate and yet not be a burden to your loved ones. If your doctor has you employ a full-time registered nurse within 5 days after you come home, we'll pay you benefits at the rate of $400.00 a month. And your benefits continue for the same number of covered days that you were in the hospital—even up to 12 full months.

Double Cash Accident Benefit.
When you and your insured spouse are hospitalized at the same time for an accidental injury, this National Home plan pays each of you DOUBLE CASH, $1,200.00 a month apiece. That's $2,400.00 in cash payments every month (when under age 65) starting the day you enter the hospital for as long as you both remain there.

Waiver of premium benefit.
After 8 continuous weeks of confinement, your premiums that come due are taken care of by National Home. And your protection continues just the same as if you were paying the premiums yourself.

65 or over?
You collect benefits in addition to Medicare!
We have designed this plan as a valuable addition to whatever is paid by Medicare—or health insurance you may have with other companies. Regardless of the coverage you already have, National Home pays you at the rate of $300.00 a month for the first 3 months, and $600.00 monthly while hospitalized thereafter. Coverage for accidents and sickness begins the very first day in the hospital. Coverage continues for life, if necessary.

Dear Friend:
You know me. I wouldn't recommend anything I didn't honestly believe in. And I think about National Home's $600-a-month plan is just about the best additional financial protection you can give your family—especially in these days of rising medical costs.
That's why I'm happy to give this plan my wholehearted endorsement. In fact, I'm a policyowner. I'm a stockholder, and I'm on the Board of Directors of National Liberty Corporation, parent company of National Home.
I've looked over the policy very carefully. I've made a point of getting to know some of the folks at National Home. And you won't find more decent, friendly people to deal with. I've seen the way they handle claims, too—quickly and generously. Believe me, when you need them, they'll be there to help you.
That's why I cannot imagine anybody passing up the chance to apply for this health plan—especially when the first month's protection costs only $1.
We all know what a terrible thing it is to be hospitalized. But what a relief it is to know there's tax-free cash coming in when you need it most! Take my advice. Send the application form now—before you forget.
Sincerely,
Art Linkletter
Art Linkletter

These are the only exclusions!
Your National Home policy covers every kind of sickness or accident except conditions caused by: war, or any act of war; any mental disease or disorder; pregnancy, except as provided under the Maternity Benefit provision; and any sickness or injury you had before your policy Effective Date...during the first two years only. You will be covered for care in any hospital, except a U.S. Government hospital or a nursing or convalescent facility.

The reliable Company behind your policy.
This is the kind of protection you may have seen advertised in Reader's Digest, Better Homes and Gardens, TV Guide and other leading publications. The special plans offered by the National Home Life Assurance Company are today helping policyowners in 46 states. In addition, our Company has a RECOMMENDED rating from Best's Insurance Reports, one of the foremost insurance authorities in the nation.

Fast, Reliable Claim Service.
You never really know how good a policy is until you have to make a claim. That's why we think you'll be interested in what some of our National Home policyowners have to say. Their comments—quoted below—are typical of the hundreds of expressions of appreciation we receive from policyowners every week...

"We were most happy with the prompt way that you sent us the claim forms when requested. Your check for the week my husband was in the hospital was received within ten days. Thank you so much it really helped in a time of need."
Mrs. Ronald E. Robinson, Miami, Fla.

"I took out the policy and had only paid two monthly premiums when I was unexpectedly put in the hospital. Was there 11 days and the National Home Life Assurance Company paid exactly what they had said they would. How happy we were we had taken the policy out."
Dorothy M. Fairon, Upper Sandusky, Ohio

Why you should mail your Application Form TODAY.

You never know when you or someone in your family will suffer a serious illness or sudden accident. Remember, 80,000 Americans are admitted to a hospital each day. And nobody knows whose turn it is next. Do you really have enough health protection to cover today's soaring doctor and hospital bills? Probably not. That's why it is so important to get this supplemental $600.00 a month plan immediately—BEFORE IT'S TOO LATE! Play it safe now and you won't be sorry later.

Here are your rates.
The following chart shows how little it costs after the first month, to cover yourself, your spouse or any adult dependent. We can issue you only one policy of this type. Each adult, 16 or over, pays the rate shown for his or her age.

Age at Enrollment	Monthly Premium Per Adult
16-44	only $4.85
45-49	only $5.55
50-54	only $6.35
55-74	only $6.95
75-79	only $8.35
80 and over	only $9.75

Only $2.70 more per month covers all your unmarried dependent children...from the age of 1 month through 18 years. Newborn children are covered automatically at the age of one month at no additional cost! And then, if you wish, just add $1.35 monthly to that, and you're covered for Maternity Benefits, too!

NOTE: The regular monthly premium shown (for age at time of enrollment) will not automatically increase as you pass from one age bracket to the next. Once you have enrolled in this National Home plan, your rate can never be changed because of how much or how often you collect from us—or because of advanced age—but only if there is a general rate adjustment, on all policies of this form number in your entire state.

Act now—"later" may be too late!
Send just $1 for first month's coverage.
TIME IS PRECIOUS! Act quickly. (No salesman will call.) Get your Application Form into the mail today—because once you suffer an accident or sickness, it's TOO LATE to buy protection at any cost. That's why we urge you to act today—before the unexpected happens.

Money-Back Guarantee
We will send your National Home policy by mail. Examine it carefully. If you decide that you don't want to continue as a member of this plan, return the policy within 15 days of the date you receive it, and we will promptly refund your money.
